President Considers Sending Rifles But No Bullets To Irish Free State.

PLANS WELLES TALK

Chief Executive Tells Newsmen He'll Confer on Question of Help For Russia.

(By Associated Press)

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—President Roosevelt disclosed today that a shortage in ammunition confronted the nation in its defense efforts.

Mr. Roosevelt said at a press conference he was looking into the question of sending some rifles to the Irish but that no ammunition could be sent because the country is way behind on ammunition even for itself.

Although he once had said arms could not be spared for Ireland, Mr. Roosevelt mentioned the possibility of sending over rifles because, he said, the actual processing of them is getting along pretty well.

The Irish wanted all kinds of things in addition to rifles he asserted, but most of these were things this country could not get for itself.

He made it plain, however, that armament aid for Ireland would have to follow assurances that the Irish would defend themselves against German attack. He said no such assurance had been received.

As for helping Russia in the battle against the Nazis, the chief executive said he expected to confer on that topic by telephone today with Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles. He expects to receive a report on what Russian Ambassador Oumansky had to say to Welles yesterday.

Informed that the Communist press in New York was saying that aid to Russia was half hearted,

U. S. VIEWING PORT HERE FOR PILOT SCHOOL

Program Would Provide For Training of Military Flight Instructors.

APPROVAL AWAITED

Harrington Says Proposals Call For Construction of Barracks.

Plans by the federal government to make Mansfield a training center for turning out military flight instructors and commercial transport fliers were announced today.

James R. Harrington, manager of Mansfield's municipal airport, said that arrangements are being made to convert the field into one of seven bases in the country and the only one in Ohio for training civilian pilots to act as flight instructors for the Air Corps or to act as pilots to transport materials or men for military needs.

The management said that government approval of the project would necessitate the construction of barracks at the airport to house the pilots to be trained here. It would also entail the purchase of at least six new training planes, he said.

Pilots trained here would already hold regular pilot's licenses but would graduate from here with licenses of both flight instructors and commercial pilots.

Harrington said that two new 330 horse-powered five-passenger cabin planes, two acrobatic, and two long-range cross country planes would be ordered for the training course.

Pilots being trained here would be attired in some type government uniform and would live under military rules at the airport barracks, according to the manager.

Flights of 1,000 miles in all directions from Mansfield would be a part of the training period. No definite time for the length of the course has been given but Harrington said that it would approximate 17 weeks.

Germans Still Holding Back On Fight Data

Reports Indicate Hitler Forces Fail to Penetrate Outer Defenses of Soviet; Luftwaffe Claims to Hold Supremacy In Air.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(AP)—The main decision over Soviet Russia already has been won, informed German quarters declared optimistically tonight after the high command had reported the German army "victorious on all fronts."

BULLETIN

MOSCOW—(AP)—Russian armies have fallen back to new positions on the Vilna and Baranowiecze fronts after inflicting heavy losses on the German column driving toward Minsk, a communique said today.

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler again today put off telling in detail how his Russian campaign was going but the Russians declared that their planes, used as "anti-tank artillery," had inflicted heavy losses on panzer columns shoved into western Russia.

German troops, proclaimed the high command from its field headquarters, have been victorious on all fronts and have made important gains "which will be made known shortly."

The Moscow communique said Red airmen, opposing German panzer columns in the precise manner that the Luftwaffe was used in the low countries and France as aerial artillery, had blasted mechanized invaders aimed at Vilna, Lithuania, and Brody and Baranowiecze, in Russian-occupied Poland.

Indications were that the Germans, on the sixth day of their drive, had not yet penetrated the secondary outer defenses of the Soviet Union to reach the primary fortifications along the old frontier.

* * *

The Russians still were fighting on soil which they had occupied as a buffer against just such a German offensive.

The Russians said their air force wrecked many a tank in "innumerable attacks" on the German mechanized forces yesterday on the front running south from Lithuania on the Baltic through Poland.

On the southern, or Bessarabian sector, facing Rumania, a great battle was declared fought through the night in the region of Sculeni.

Elsewhere the night passed quietly, the Moscow communique said. Cessation of operations at night is customary—almost compulsory—in tank warfare, where the vision of the tank driver is limited by a narrow slit in his armor plate.

The Russians indicated that the

WESTINGHOUSE HELPS DEFENSE

Savings on Aluminum Enough To Build 130 Bombers, Says Chairman Robertson.

The use of plastics, steel, and other materials as substitutes for aluminum at the Mansfield Westinghouse has already saved enough aluminum to build 130 two-engine army bombing planes, A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse board of directors, said today.

The company began several months ago to help conserve the aluminum supply for the defense program by using other materials in the manufacture of refrigerators and its other products.

More than 1,500,000 pounds of aluminum has been withdrawn from the company's 1941 requirements for appliances, Robertson said. Use of alternate materials also saved more than 150,000 pounds of nickel and approximately 100,000 pounds of zinc, he added.

"Our engineers have been working day and night on this matter of materials," Robertson said.

12 Pictures Tell Story Of Graduation In 'Life'

Three Pages In Magazine Show Mansfield High School Graduates In Commencement Activities.

Life magazine's eagerly awaited publication of Mansfield Senior high school commencement pictures reached the news stands today and created a demand for copies that dealers were unable to supply unless the orders had been placed beforehand.

One news stand reported that it had only been able to obtain half of the additional 1,500 copies ordered this week and could "have easily used at least 200 more copies."

Three pages containing 12 pictures and 150 words of script were used by the magazine to record the story of "Life Goes to a High School Graduation," a feature that will place Mansfield in the eyes of 3,000,000 readers as a typical midwestern American city.

The pictures are the result of a week's work on the part of Alfred Eisenstaedt, photographer for Life, who was aided in covering the event by Miss Lisbeth de Morrini, an editorial associate.

They touch upon practically every event of the week excepting commencement itself but include an unusual view of the graduates taken in First Lutheran church at the baccalaureate services.

Miss Patty Bancroft, member of the class who first had the idea of asking Life to cover the event, is the subject of two pictures. One shows her practicing the class day poem before a mirror, and the other being tapped for the National Honor Society.

High Court Ends Order That Stops Payment to Miners.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The Ohio supreme court today cleared the way for immediate payment of $269,000 in benefits to 6,500 coal miners who were idle 42 days during 1939 contract negotiations between operators and union officials.

The barrier to payment was removed as the court refused to extend past noon today a restraining order obtained last week by 22 operators against the bureau of unemployment compensation.

Checks have been made out and only needed to be dater before they are mailed.

MERCURY HITS 91, RELIEF DUE

Forecast Promises Showers, Cooler Weather Tomorrow; All of State Bakes.

Sweltering Mansfield saw hope today for relief from the year's worst heat wave in the weatherman's forecast of local showers Saturday and cooler weather by Saturday afternoon.

The temperature reached an official 91 degrees here yesterday while most Ohio cities reported readings up to 97 degrees for new high marks for the year. The top reading here equalled the previous high recorded last Sunday.

With the mercury at 89 at noon today, there was a possibility that a new season's mark might be reached this afternoon. It was the eighth consecutive day of heat.

Average reading for the past 24 hours was 79, which was 10 degrees above normal. Although the temperatures moderated to 67 this morning, a number of Mansfielders found it was too warm last night for comfortable rest. There was a breeze during most of the night, but the high degree of humidity made the heat more oppressive.

All the major Ohio cities had higher readings than Mansfield yesterday. Cincinnati was the warmest with a top of 98 degrees. Cleveland reported 96 for the highest of the season and Columbus had a 93-degree peak.

The heat today enveloped all of the nation except the Pacific coast where temperatures in the 60's were reported. Readings of 90 or above were common from Denver, Colo., to the Atlantic coast.

RAVENNA —(U.P.)—Lieut. Col. Robert S. Chavin, commanding officer at Ravenna arsenal, said today the grounds will be open for public inspection from 8:30 a. m. to 6 p. m. Sunday.

The Greenleaf road entrance on State Route 5 will be used as the starting point for the 21-mile tour. Colonel Chavin warned that no cameras will be allowed inside the grounds. Any cameras found inside will be confiscated.

CONVENE HERE

Officers From 8 Counties at FBI Session Today.

Approximately 100 law enforcement officers from Richland and seven neighboring counties gathered in Mansfield today to attend a national defense conference on measures to combat espionage and sabotage in this district.

Federal Bureau of Investigation officers were scheduled to give instructions to local law enforcement officers from 1:30 to 5 p. m. in Grotto hall. Police Chief Meade K. Bates was in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

Lee V. Boardman, agent-in-charge of FBI control over 40 Ohio counties, was scheduled to direct the instruction program.

Attending the Mansfield defense conference will be sheriffs, state highway patrolmen, village authorities and city police from Richland, Ashland, Crawford, Huron, Holmes, Marion, Wayne and Erie counties.

Judge C. H. Huston of the Richland county common pleas court will address the meeting preceding the instruction period.

Eden Protests Action Allowing German Troops To Cross Swedish Territory.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Britain has protested Sweden's announced intention to permit German troops to cross her territory from Norway to Finland, informed sources said today.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was said to have delivered the protest to Foreign Minister Bjorn Gustaf Pritz when the latter called at the foreign office.

This reinforced a "condemnation" of the Swedish position which the British minister in Stockholm was said to have delivered to the Swedish foreign minister yesterday.

Informed quarters foresaw a general worsening of Britain's relations with Sweden and Finland as a result of the Swedes' giving the Germans the right of way and the Finnish president's war declaration.

In view of a statement issued in authoritative quarters today that there are "all too many signs that the Finnish government is allowing itself to become

ACTING CHIEF

Mayor Appoints Dr. Wild To Direct City Health Staff.

Mayor William J. Locke, acting in his capacity as president of the Mansfield Board of Health, announced today he has appointed Dr. William B. Wild, assistant city-county health commissioner, to serve as acting commissioner.

Dr. A. W. Thomas, Columbus, a member of the Child Hygiene division of the State Department of Health, wrote Mayor Locke and asked that he be considered as an applicant for the post as health commissioner. The post was left vacant by the death of Dr. Roy C. Rehder who was killed with his wife in an automobile accident Monday at Central City, Neb.

The mayor said that Wild would serve as acting commissioner until official action may be taken by the city and county health boards. The county board will meet tomorrow afternoon while the city board is scheduled to meet Monday, July 7.

Records Indicate 400 Ohioans Will Get Hurt July 4.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — The Ohio State Medical association predicted today that "if Ohioans live up to their usual Fourth-of-July record" about 400 persons in the state will suffer "serious injuries" from fireworks a week from today.

"Statistics compiled by the American Medical association show that Ohio celebrated the Fourth very boisterously in 1940," said a statement issued by the state association's public health education committee, "piling up a toll of 461 fireworks casualties and thereby out-numbering every other state except New York."

RETAIL SALES UP 33 PER CENT

Sale of Motor Vehicles Leads Climb In Ohio.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Retail store sales in Ohio continued to soar during May, advancing 33 per cent above the May level of last year, the Ohio State university bureau of business research reported today.

Sales figures were based on all types of businesses except department stores, which tabulated separately showed a 20 per cent rise.

Threatened by curtailed automobile production, sale sof motor vehicles leaped 57 per cent last month in comparison with May, 1940. Other major increases included: Household appliances, 44 per cent; jewelry stores, 38 per cent, and men's clothing, 33 per cent.

M'SWEENEY GETS DOUBLE OFFER

Proferred Posts With FHA And Defense Savings Setup.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— John McSweeney, former Democratic congressman from Wooster, has been offered a position as Ohio administrator of the defense savings organization which is promoting the sale of defense bonds, it was learned today. The job pays $6,500 annually.

McSweeney also has been offered a job in the federal housing administration at a bigger salary than the defense savings position. The FHA job would require him to have headquarters in Washington, however, and he prefers to stay in Ohio, it was reported.

Loud Shrieks of Train Whistles Bring Complaints

Various complaints are received daily by city officials but Mayor William J. Locke received a new one today—train whistles.

The mayor said that residents of Bowman street near the Erie railroad had complained of the excessive noise made by the train whistles.

One resident told Locke that he kept a check of all engines, their numbers, the time they passed his home and the number of times they whistled in doing so.

His big complaint was that "it wasn't so bad to know they were passing but it was uncomfortable to feel that they were being re-routed through your parlor."

The Erie has a high, piping whistle, easily distinguished from the Pennsylvania's which have a deep-throated roar. Each railroad has its own distinctive whistle and residents near the Erie don't approve of its choice.

Mayor Locke said that the railroad had promised on previous occasions to blow their whistles as little as possible. He pointed out, however, that the added traffic due to increased industry in the city made it necessary for the railroads to signal more frequently.

Railroad officials said that it was necessary for the trains to signal each other, especially at night, because of the heavy traffic in the yards.

Corvettes, U. S. Planes Help British Win In Atlantic

By DREW MIDDLETON

LONDON—(AP)—With the aid of increasing numbers of mass-produced corvette patrol boats and American-made Catalina flying boats, Britain slowly is winning "one of the war's most decisive battles—in the Atlantic ocean," it was declared here today.

Extended American naval patrols have aided the British, but a source here said the real credit for reducing British tonnage losses goes to the Catalina planes and sturdy corvettes because they now are scouting sea areas the Germans formerly considered safe for submarine operations.

One result of what were called "unspectacular but emphatic triumphs" has been to force the Germans to forego their tactics of submarine rendezvous in mid-Atlantic with supply ships, it was asserted.

"Scouting flights have driven the U-boats below the surface," this source said. "They no longer are able to hunt in packs and lie in wait on the surface for convoys."

Another function of the Catalinas has been to keep German long-range Fockewulfe bombers away from convoys because these Catalina boats give them a fierce fight and are said to be death on German Dornier "flying pencils."

The ugly and menacing corvettes look like whalers but carry guns enough to down a destroyer and depth charges sufficient to destroy a flotilla of submarines.

Their 17 or 18 knots have proved adequate for hunting submarines driven below the surface by flying boats, it was said.

The corvettes also are well protected against machine-gun fire from aircraft.

One great advantage to Britain is the speed with which these boats are built. Less intricate than destroyers they are built almost like the mass-produced automobile.

"Invisible" German submarine losses were said to have been as great as those recorded by the British admiralty.

Of the German navy's big surface craft, only the 35,000-ton battleship Tirpitz and a 10,000-ton pocket battleship, Admiral Scheer, are available for sea duty, the British say.

SOVIET PLANES BLAST AT NAZI PANZER UNITS

Germans Continue to Hold Up Details on Fighting, Claim Supremacy In Air.

German threat centered on the three main drives:

1. Toward Vilna, northeast of Minsk, capital of White Russia,
2. Toward Baranowiecze, southwest of Minsk; and
3. Toward Brody, south of the Pinsk marshes, near the border of the rich Ukraine.

Aside from battle line action, Red airmen were praised by the Kremlin command for raids on the Rumanian port of Constanta, Bucharest, Rumanian capital, and Ploesti, center of the Rumanian oil fields.

The German command indirectly acknowledged terrific resistance by the Russians. One passage of its daily war bulletin said that the first five days of the struggle proved "that Soviet Russian armies had been ready to attack central Europe." This was evident from dispositions of Red forces on frontier lines "unsuitable for defensive purposes," the communique said.

Still short on details but long on generalized reports of success against Russia, Germany claimed air supremacy over the whole of her great eastern invasion front while she sought to mobilize Europe in anti-Communist, pro-Nazi crusade.

Except for a great battle raging on the plains of Sovietized Poland with the White Russian capital of Minsk in the immediate focus of attack and defense, the Russians said their forces were holding firm on this sixth day of the titanic struggle.

Moscow gave no indication as to the trend of this battle, reporting only that "fighting is in progress." The Red army was trying to envelop and destroy a panzer column pointed at Minsk, which is 160 miles inside the German-Russian frontier.

The German high command broadcast a communique reporting further "great successes" and "development of strategic plans" but the German public, with a growing eagerness for details on a campaign presented to them as an ideological war, and the rest of the world were left without specific official data from Adolf Hitler's headquarters.

It looked more and more as if the Red army had stolen some of the thunder of Hitler's lightning war technique and that the Nazi master of most of Europe was preparing for long siege of the world citadel of communism.

In Spain it was reported that Adolf Hitler had demanded a token anti-Communist force from each nation of the Nazi-planned new Europe. Spain leaped quickly into the vanguard of the crusade with recruiting of a Spanish legion.

Italy already had stepped in line with announcement of a motorized division to help Germany against Russia. One by one, since the German-Russian conflict started last Sunday, other states tied to Germany either by geography, conquest or fear took their stands.

Volunteer forces were reported in formation in Norway, Denmark, Sweden and occupied France. Croatia was ready to march, Slovakia had marched, Denmark broke relations with the U. S. S. R., and German spokesmen looked benevolently on signs of the anti-Red spirit in the Netherlands, Belgium and even Portugal.

In fact, all the continent, by Nazi indications, was looked on as a potential camp of crusaders against Communism.

Another salient development of the war, apart from the Russian-German struggle, was an authoritative report from a high Ankara source that Turkey had granted transit to Vichy forces from Syria provided they traveled as unarmed civilians.

Only a fraction of the French forces, however, were likely to get out because of transport limitations. The British and Free French campaign in the Levant, to bar its use as a German near eastern base, appeared to be nearing the end.

North and northwest of captured Damascus, the Syrian capital, the Allies reported they had "increased the extent of their penetration," at the center of the "Allied front and in the coastal sectors there was only local activity," said the Cairo communique.

It might well be that the Vichy mandate administration, seeing little chance of German help, now that the Reich is tied up on the Russian front, was preparing to abandon Syria and Lebanon without another major battle.

Germany, now fighting on t.. o big air fronts, said the Luftwaffe last night sank 18,000 tons of British shipping and bombed objectives along the south coast of England. On the eastern front, she claimed the whiphand, saying that Soviet airmen were kept out of the Reich yesterday.

Destruction of five British merchantmen, totaling 31,500 tons, was credited by Germany today to one submarine in recent operations in mid-Atlantic, west of Africa.

Reports by way of Vichy said that German planes flying from the north, that is, Finland, had renewed assaults on Leningrad and the Russian naval base at Kronstadt. Up to this morning the Finnish port of Turku was said to have undergone 14 Russian bombing attacks.

Pravda, Moscow organ of the Communist party, paid high tribute to the British offensive on Germany's western air front, saying that more than 2,000 German planes had been lost there.

"Now British aviation, constantly reinforced from America has grown greatly," it added: "They already have qualitative superiority and soon will have quantitative superiority.

However, Pravda said, "partial successes or failure on one stage or the other, or one sector or the other will not determine the outcome of the war."

The latest operation of the RAF, after a night of renewed hammering at Kiel, Cologne and Dusseldorf, was a one-hour attack by daylight on the German-occupied French coast. That has become the pattern of the RAF's campaign—deep inland by night, the coastal regions by day.

The German claim was that the British had lost 136 planes in the last eight days of cross-channel raiding.

The German public, instead of gettting place names and distances to mark the path of blitz forces in Russia, still had to content themselves with glowing actions in unidentified localities and unspecified dates.

One correspondent described destruction of a whole Soviet tank brigade of 40 or more vehicles in a great Panzer battle "on one of the most important roads leading into the heart of the Soviet union —somewhere east of the Bug river boundary in Poland.

A German tank regiment, seasoned in both the Polish and French campaign, struck the blow, the reporter said, and not one of the Reds escaped.

The Russians, however, provided more concrete data in their reports.

South of Minsk, a communique said, an all-day tank battle in the Luck sector of what formerly was Poland was turned to the Red army's advantage while the defenders along the Prut river frontier at the Balkan end of the front were reported still holding fast.

The official German news agency, DNB, informed the news-starved German public that the industrial city of Leningrad, second largest city in the U. S. S. R., had been the target of Nazi bombers for two days. Rumanian fliers were said to have cooperated with German airmen in raids on Russian Black Sea bases.

Another important sidelight on the Nazi-Russian conflict came from the preplexed Japanese, who announced through their cabinet information bureau spokesman, Koh Ishii, that Japan would be placed in "a very awkward and embarrassing position" by U. S. war aid to the Soviet union.

He acknowledged that Japan had no clear knowledge as to the extent of any such aid.

Hungary Declares War On Russia

BERLIN —(AP)— Continental Europe was described by an authorized German spokesman today as being in a "spontaneous uprising" against Soviet Russia.

Hungary announced this morning that she is in a state of war against Russia.

Croatia indicated to the Germans that she "is prepared to and will" take part in the war.

From other states, some under German domination and others free to make their own decisions," the spokesman said offers have come of volunteers to fight against Communism.

Volunteers are offering themselves in Spain, the Netherlands, Belgium and Norway and Sweden is extending sympathy and important material assistance to Finland, he said.

The desire to raise volunteers also is being expressed in France and Portugal, the Germans asserted, and the Baltic states were represented as being happy that the "Russian yoke" is being raised.

It was emphasized, however, that the Baltic states are an area of military operations and that as far as the Reich is concerned no final decisions are being made respecting that region.

"Dutch, Flemish and Walloon volunteers have jointed Europe's crusade against Bolshevism," the Deutsche diplomatische politische korrespondenz said.

Spanish Press Gives Warning to Britain

MADRID —(U.P.)— The Falange (government) press today warned Great Britain that Spain would import by sea whatever gasoline the nation requires and would send Spaniards to fight against Russia, regardless of the attitude of Britain.

The newspaper attitude toward Britain's blockade was emphasized following Falangist demonstrations against Russia and the recruiting of volunteers to fight with Germany.

An official statement said a corps of volunteers was being organized to fight against Russia.

Communists Are Seized In Paris

BERLIN —(INS)— Forty Communists were arrested in Paris today for staging a demonstration against Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, DNB reported. The Communists were said to have beaten up five members of the Nationalist Youth Organization.

Anti-Soviet Moves Reported In Spain

MADRID — (AP) — Anti-Soviet demonstrations spread throughout Spain today as regional headquarters of the Falange, Spain's only political party, set up recruiting stations and expected to rally "a legion of combatants to fight against Russia."

Thousands of Falangists marched through the streets of Spanish cities. Demonstrations were held at Ubeda, Cartegena, Toledo, Jaen, Gerona, Palma de Mallorca and El Escorial.

At Seville, crowds of students marched to the cry: "Long live Hitler, Mussolini and Franco and to death with Communism."

The Falange recruiting followed a report here that Adolf Hitler had demanded formation of a token anti-Communist force in each nation of his "New Europe" but what Spain's contribution to the fight against the Soviets would amount to still was a question.

President Considers Sending Rifles But No Bullets To Irish Free State.

Mr. Roosevelt preferred not to comment.

To a question how long it would take before America was turning out defense material in tremendous volume, the president replied that a question so general could not be answered categorically. It depends on the article, he said, and for some things a peak already has been reached. For other things top production may not come for six or eight months or a year.

"As a general thing," he was asked, "are you satisfied with the management of the defense effort?"

On some things, yes, on some things, no, he responded.

By inquiring in turn how he should know, Mr. Roosevelt countered an inquiry whether the Irish were changing their views in the light of happenings in other parts of Europe.

He answered in the negative a question whether the United States ever had taken up the possibility of using Irish naval bases. And, he added, that he was quite sure the British never had said anything about seizing any bases from Ireland to help in the ferrying of war supplies across the Atlantic.

12 Pictures Tell Story of Commencement Activities of Senior High Grads.

Fishback, and the "prettiest girl in the class," Lillian Art, are also the subject of individual photographs.

Class day exercises, a class dinner-dance and the hayride and barn dance at Malabar Farm as the guests of Novelist Louis Bromfield are included in the lay-out. Jim Gorman's graduation present, a second hand car, and several of Patty Bancroft's gifts are also pictured.

Text matter accompanying the pictures asserted that a poll of the graduates showed that only 9.2 per cent of the class believed this country should fight in the war.

"If on its (the war's) outcome depended the survival of their system of free public education in the pleasant security of Central Ohio," Life said, "Mansfield's seniors were only aware that, in their own slang, graduation had been 'superslubguplous' or in other words, wonderful."

Selection of Mansfield's commencement as typical of that in a mid-western American city was made by Life magazine after conducting an investigation prompted by the letters of invitation from both Miss Bancroft and the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce.

Originally scheduled for three days, coverage of the event was extended to one week by the magazine in order to give Life representatives ample time for their pictorial assignment.

PARTY MARKS OPENING OF GALION HOTEL

Ohio Hotel Men Gather To Participate In Formal Opening of Talbott.

GALION — Formal opening of the new Hotel Talbott in Galion was held Thursday evening with 130 guests in attendance, together with officers and trustees of the Ohio Hotels association which held its quarterly meeting at the hotel Thursday.

Adapted to the Williamsburg style of architecture, with white and green exterior, and an attractive colonial-style interior, Galion's new hotel was transformed from the old Central hotel.

The opening at 7 p. m. started with a dinner. Music was furnished by Joe Vera and his "Men of Music" who came to Galion from the Glass Hat at the Congress hotel, Chicago. Song Stylist Jacquelyn Panette appeared with the orchestra as soloist.

Mayor W. M. King opened the evening's program with a short talk, which included a welcome to the hotel's manager, William B. Horstman, who comes to Galion from the Netherlands-Plaza hotel, Cincinnati. Dean C. Talbott, local attorney, is the owner of the building and recently leased it to the Galion Hotel Inc., of which Mr. Horstman is vice president and general manager.

Toastmaster for the evening was E. P. Monroe, chairman of a committee of local business men appointed by Mayor W. M. King for the purpose of dedicating the new hotel.

Captain H. Mowrey, secretary of the Ohio Hotel association, was introduced by E. P. Monroe. Mowrey presented Randall Davis of Hotel Gibson, Cincinnati; Virgil Dye of Hotel Harding, Marion; Charles Kroner of Hotel Rieger, Sandusky; Frank H. Sweeney of Kemper Lane hotel, Cincinnati; Reynolds Hodgson of the Mansfield-Leland; F. A. Onesto of Hotel Onesto, Canton, president of the Ohio Hotels association; Joseph G. Wright of Hotel Wagner, Sidney, and other visiting hotel managers.

There are approximately 25 people employed at the Hotel Talbott. Day desk men will be Allen Ratcliffe of Tulsa, Oklahoma, and Scare Clark of Jamestown, N. Y., both co-op students at the College of Business Administration of the University of Cincinnati who will alternate every two weeks. The night desk man will be Vinson Adams, principal at the Bloomingrove school, who will work during the summer.

LOT SALE

Of the New Allotment In Lincoln Heights Called "Lincoln Fields."

ALL LOTS TO BE SOLD FOR ONLY $1 DOWN AND THEN 50c A WEEK. No interest FOR TWO YEARS. Perfect Title, free abstract or title certificate. All Payments at Bank.

SALE JUST STARTING. Don't fail to see these wonderful large level lots just off Ashland Road on Highway 42. Watch for our signs on Pennsylvania and Lorain Streets—two county roads that lead through LINCOLN FIELDS on the north edge of Lincoln Heights. Every lot is staked at all four corners and tagged with price.

STOP PAYING RENT—Buying a lot on these remarkable terms is where the home begins. You may build as soon as you pay your dollar down if you have the money or credit for the material. There is no way to stop the burden and worry about rent unless you first get your lot and then plan to build. Hundreds of our buyers in over a hundred and twenty five cities own their own homes and started with only one dollar. "Where there's a will there's a way."

SEE THESE PRICES—$99, $119, $134, $149, $159, $169, $179, $219, $234, $269. Most of the lots are 50 to 150 and are priced under $169. You may buy two or more lots in one contract and special terms will be given on four lots or more in one contract. Lots priced over $179 are double lots in area and face the county roads. On the average we never have offered such large well located lots at such low prices. You will be delighted with Lincoln Fields when you see this location.

EVERY LOT IS RESTRICTED. No garage houses or temporary houses or houses built of secondhand material can be built in Lincoln Fields. Lincoln Heights is now a place where any man may be proud to live and we intend to maintain that high standard of homes. We allow a modest house such as any man with a steady job can build. It must be finished and of new material and must be of permanent construction.

YOU ARE GUARANTEED A SQUARE DEAL. We have been in business since 1856 and we are proud of the good name and reputation for fair dealing and financial integrity. For thirty two years we have specialized in the sale of developments for people of modest means we have developed and sold over a hundred and sixty five subdivisions in over 125 cities. No man lives who has not had a square deal from us and we never forfeit without giving the buyer many opportunities to renew and obtain full credit for what he has paid.

HOW TO REACH LINCOLN FIELDS—Drive out Ashland Road or Highway 42 to Pennsylvania St. in Lincoln Heights or Lorain St. which is a short distance east of Pennsylvania. Watch for our big sign on the Highway and on Lorain St. as well. Then go north a short distance to Lincoln Fields. We sell only on the property all day and evening until dark. Contracts delivered on the ground and payments then made at a Mansfield Bank.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, JUNE 27, 1941.

The French people seem to have forgotten their "Marseillaise."

We hardly know what to make of the kid who comes around convoying his dog, as he says, on a lend-leash.

A Silver 'W' For 'Van'

HE'S an executive, yet he looks as though he could go out in the plant and do any job there is to be done—and he has a lock of hair that keeps falling down over his forehead.

You don't need to know him more than an hour to feel entirely natural in addressing him as "Van." His eyebrows probably would go up if you put a "Mr." on in front and used his full name.

That's the sort Clarence L. VanDerau Works Manager of the Mansfield Westinghouse plant is. It couldn't have been better told than in the citation given to him along with the "silver W" he received yesterday from George H. Bucher, president of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

The citation was given for a number of reasons—to quote its words "particularly for the quality of his judgment in matters of manufacturing method; for his ingenuity in devising new methods to reduce costs; for his good humor under all circumstances; and for his part in effective Westinghouse-Mansfield community relations."

All who know C. L. VanDerau—pardon, we mean Van—will be glad that he has received the Westinghouse silver "W" and will be certain that he richly deserves it.

But if he reads this he'll probably mutter "Whaddye want to make all that fuss for?"

That's the kind of a fellow he is—as it says on the silver "W"—one "whom his fellow men delight to honor."

The Last Frontier

THE LAST, lone border has been reached in our western trek, and it seems to be like this. We quote from an inspirational outburst of American Airlines.

> "Ranch life is real, and you can have it as you like it. Whether you choose a 'working' ranch, where cattle wrangling is a serious business, or a guest ranch you can have the fun of clapping a ten-gallon hat on your head, of tucking trousers into the gayest boots, of falling in love with a stripe-nose pinto and riding range like some light-hearted Lochinvar out of the west. Swing your legs to a cowboy song, sniff the clear dry air, shout 'Scat!' at cusious desert gophers and scampering rabbits. Know the lift of riding in moon light, of 'sleeping out' beneath a canopy of stars, the informal fun of steak fries and country dances."

And so on and on, in a rhapsody which may be as synthetic as the dude ranch itself, but which serves the purpose of giving effete easterners a lift of soul and luring them poetically to a realm that will give them plenty of fresh air and clean fun and exercise, anyway.

So this is the final evolution of our famous "Wild West," a vacation land for the town-weary business and professional man, a thrilling land of make-believe for the tired business woman, a he-man's paradise for the children.

It's all right, and it's a grand institution. As for the real West, it is gone forever. Or is it now up in the unexplored levels of the stratosphere, and will our hardy young people soon be riding herd up there, on bucking planes?

Summer Reading

A YOUNG newspaper woman who usually runs a group of book reviews in her Saturday column surprised readers recently by saying: "Sorry; no book list this week." She explained that she was "reading for fun," this summer, a few books she has always meant to get acquainted with and a few old favorites.

What books is she reading? G. K. Chesterton's "The Man Who Was Thursday" is one. Also "The Wind in the Willows" by Kenneth Grahame, "Without My Cloak" by Kate O'Brien, "Amos Judd" by J. A. Mitchell, "Old Wives' Tale" by Arnold Bennett, Forster's "A Passage to India," "The Turn of the Screw" by Henry James and "Pickwick Papers" by Dickens.

It might take a psychoanalyst to figure out the relationship or lack of relationship in such a group. But it sets a fellow to wondering whether he might not likewise "catch up" on some of his back reading by the same method.

Maybe it isn't necessary to read all the latest books about the world situation as fast as they come out. Perhaps a few of them could wait until next month or next winter, while a reader turned to older, time-tested volumes for fun, escape and, even better, historical and philosophical perspective.

You can get another line on the trend of the times from the fact that a "sky pilot" used to be a preacher and is now a bomber.

"WITH THE GREATEST OF EASE—!"

Recalling Seer's Predictions

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — There is an old pipe maker in Chicago who runs to dreams and visions. In the summer of 1940 he predicted that Hitler would invade Russia in 1941, would take all of European Russia, but that it would cost him a million men. He also predicted that eventually Germany would lose the war but that it would all be pretty terrible before peace comes.

Curiously enough this pipe maker claims to have known "the real Hitler" when he was a youth. He insists that the present Nazi dictator is not the Austrian corporal at all. He talks convincingly about the shape of his skull, the shape of his ears, certain intonations in his speech, etc. At the time he made these predictions and observations to the writer, in September, 1940, Paul Gallico had a serial running in a popular magazine based on that same theme.

Before leaving this pipe maker it might be stated that he included in his predictions the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt for a third term, which the writer, at the time, did not particularly like to hear.

There have been those not given to visions, who dealt entirely with the logic of the situation, who believed that Hitler would find some excuse to attack Russia. The British have inclined to that view for a long time, but were unable to convince Stalin of the danger. They thought and urged at the time of Hitler's invasion of the Balkans that the whole picture was clearcut, and if Russia had leaped in then, with all the Balkans fighting with her against Hitler, the story might be different.

* * *

The British government has had the same unhappy experience with various other countries. Had Norway not insisted on refusing to permit British forces to cross their country to help Finland the conquest of Norway might have proved a much tougher nut for the Nazis. There would have been no complete surprise when Germany struck, and the natural difficulties of the terrain would have cost the Nazis heavily even though they won in the end.

Everyone is familiar with the tragic mistake of the Belgians, in first refusing to permit the French defenses to extend so as to protect their country, and second in declining even to have the same type of ammunition as the French! So that when the Belgian army ran out of cartridges and shells it was impossible for either France or Britain to supply them!

* * *

Now the question is how much the Russian campaign is going to cost Hitler. Whether it will yield enough in food, oil and supplies, not to mention slaves—for there is what the people of the conquered countries virtually become—to pay for the loss of men and the expenditure of war supplies in the fighting.

Expert opinion is that only by following the tactics the Russians used against Napoleon can the cost to Hitler be made too high to compensate for the advantages. And winter is a long time off!

But if the Russians should destroy everything as they retreat, burning everything that will kindle, and let the Nazis advance against guerilla fighting, and thus permit no plunder and no great amount of captive population to be turned into slaves, Hitler would rue bitterly by January that he had turned his face east.

The 121st Psalm

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

FRIGHTENED — discouraged? Feeling bitterly alone? Don't. Others are with you. Others have gone before, along the same dark trail. Out of the past, like a hand groping, comes the cry of their need. Out of the past, like a hand-pointing, comes the voice of their faith. Listen!

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help . . ."

(Lost in the desert maze of my own blundering, where shall I go for guidance or a goal? If I cry—only echoes answer. If I appeal to other men — they know no more than I. Where shall I look for help? I will look, where others looked who were as lost as I. I will turn my face away from the spectacle of my own fear and failure — and all the other dark, mean things of life—and I will lift up my eyes to those great visions of the Right which flash like shining peaks above the troubled darkness of the soul.)

"My help cometh from the Lord which made heaven and earth."

(Courage and kindness, purity and truth, these are tall hills above the jungle's quaking night. My help comes from these hills which lift me from the darkness into light. My help comes from that God who set such hills to aid my stumbling flight.)

"He will not suffer thy foot to be moved: he that keepeth thee will not slumber. Behold, he that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep."

(Life is so troubled! I am tossed and torn—yet, deep within me, something still stays sure. Still there remains some strong and steadfast bond with Life itself which nothing shakes. I do not, cannot, understand that bond. I cannot see that Power in which it has its root. Yet I can feel it, holding fast, through every storm—even those wildest storms of my own cowardice.)

"The Lord is thy keeper: The Lord is thy shade upon thy right hand. The sun shall not smite thee by day, nor the moon by night.

"The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil: He shall preserve thy soul. The Lord shall preserve thy going out, and thy coming in, from this time forth, and even forever more."

* * *

(I come—I go—along life's tangled trail. And in passage, often fall and fail. And every day, in many graves, I die. And every day, through many birthbeds, I live again. Yet, never for two seconds am the same. But always something in me is the same. Always through birth or death, my real self stays the same.)

(No one has ever seen that secret self. Not even I can trace its pattern or its plan. And yet, I know it's there, through every shift and change. And vaguely understand the reason why. For it is part of That which cannot die . . . one with that Power which shaped me from the mire and placed within a spark of His own fire. The spark survives—whate'er befalls the sod. And I His child, go on and on with God! Forevermore.)

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, June 27, 1921.

Earl H. Kochheiser was the presiding officer at the 26th annual convention of the Ohio Luther league in Toledo.

Annual picnic of the rural mail carriers of Richland county was held at the home of John W. Boyce.

Initiation service was held by Tau chapter, Phi Delta Kappa fraternity.

E. B. Caldwell was elected second vice president of the American Association of Manufacturers and Pharmacists at a meeting in Boston.

R. A. Spratt, Thomas Bell and Grant Alvord were in attendance at the annual state Spanish War Veterans encampment at Lorain.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, June 27, 1936.

Miss Dorothy Cairns and Robert S. Kerns were married at St. Mark's Lutheran church.

Austin Corey was in Philadelphia visiting friends.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McMenamin, 140 Newman street.

Sam W. Tracy reported that his car had been damaged while it was parked in front of his home.

Cars driven by Robert Sheriff and George Ruble collided at an intersection.

TODAY IN HISTORY

The first impeachment of a high government officer in America took place on June 27, 1689, when Sir Edmund Andros, Royal Governor of the colonial house of deputies at Boston, was impeached and sent back to England.

Russians, Foreseeing Long War, Ask for American Tank Designs

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—During the Russian campaign against Finland, a representative of Amtorg (Soviet purchasing agency in this country) came to an American builder of tanks and wanted to buy his designs. The builder was S. Bechhold, president of Armored Tank corporation.

The Amtorg agent explained that Russian tanks had broken down in the Finnish campaign. The extremely low temperatures had frozen them. He wanted Armored Tank's design for a de-freezing mechanism.

At that time, few Americans wanted to aid Russia, even for a profit, and least of all Bechhold, who is a naturalized citizen and an intense patriot. His answer to the Soviet agent was: "I don't trust Stalin, but when he goes to war against Hitler, then I'll let you have my tanks."

That was a year and a half ago, but the Amtorg agent didn't forget. On the first business day (Monday, June 23) after the German invasion of Russia, June 21, he showed up bright and early at the Armored Tank office.

"Remember," he said to Bechhold, "what you said about Stalin fighting Hitler? Well, the time has come. How about selling your tank designs?"

Note—The fact that the Soviets are in the market for designs for tanks not yet made indicates that they, at least, expect to be able to hold off Hitler for a long time.

State Department Detectives.

In addition to its many other duties, the State department has now organized a secret detective agency of its own. This leaked out in a peculiar sort of way, largely because a certain gentleman got up early in the morning to walk his dog along Connecticut avenue.

In the same Connecticut avenue apartment house lives Camille Chautemps, ex-premier of France, now an exile in the United States. The gentleman who walks his dog in the morning once mentioned to Premier Chautemps: "What time do you get your mail every day?"

"In the afternoon. Why?"

"Because every morning, I notice that a man comes to the desk of the hotel, asks for your mail, puts it in his pocket and takes it away.

Premier Chautemps then decided that perhaps it was a little strange that no mail was delivered to him in the morning. Through friends, he asked the Post Office to investigate.

Post Office inspectors immediately went to work and reported that the French statesman's mail was being collected by someone every morning. However, after investigating further, the Post Office men suddenly shut up.

"All further information regarding the matter will have to come from Assistant Secretary of State Berle,' they said.

Note—In addition to re-establishing the "Black Chamber" for decoding foreign governments' diplomatic messages, the State department's new detective agency has also conceived the unusual idea of having three bodyguards assigned to Cordell Hull. Mr. Hull, one of the most popular men in the country, is thus the first Secretary of State in many years to be so guarded.

Poor Dollar Man.

Donald Nelson, able OPM purchasing boss, was having breakfast in a hotel on the way to work when his car was hauled off to a police station for illegal parking. Learning from a cop where the car was, Nelson took a taxi to his office and dispatched an aide to the Traffic Bureau with his official permit and a $10 bill. However, the $10 wasn't needed.

"I guess your boss is in the clear if he has an official permit," said the officer in charge. "He's one of those dollar-a-year men, isn't he? Well, it would be a shame to fine a man with a salary like that."

British Advice.

Ambassador Winant brought back from London a special report for Mayor La Guardia, Civilian Defense administrator, and it came from Herbert Morrison, British minister of Home Security.

Morrison sent La Guardia valuable information on British experience in civil defense. No. 1 piece of advice was a warning against waiting too long to prepare safeguads against bombing attacks.

Britain, Morrison said, made that mistake, with the result that there were many unnecessary casualties in the first months of Nazi air raids. The United States may never be attacked from the air, Morrison declared, but it should prepare anyway.

The "enthusiasm" of citizens to serve is not enough, Morrison warned. Months of laborious planning and training are required before civilians are able to take care of themselves, and of each other, in air attacks. Here are some of the British recommendations:

(1) Require civilians to stay off streets in emergencies. Air raid shelters are not absolutely necessary if people remain in their homes or in buildings where they work. The British have found that certain floors of skyscrapers, about halfway up, are excellent safety zones in an air raid. Needless exposure on the street cost many lives in England, from bomb splinters and falling debris.

(2) Train people against panic. This took a heavy toll in French cities during Nazi air attacks. Employes in office buildings stampeded for exits and many were killed or injured. Morrison reminded Le Guardia that panics often are started by fifth columnists, and that measures should be taken to prevent them.

(3) Pick trained personnel for civilian defense work. British cities at first depended on willing, but incompetent, volunteers in auxiliary fire fighting squads, women's relief groups and utilities squads. But experience proved them inadequate and the government had to reorganize home defense units completely, using trained and disciplined workers.

Capital Chaff.

The government is about to erect a powder plant at Childersburg, Ala., and the mayor, the governor, and Senator Bankhead have joined in urging that it be declared a defense housing emergency area. But the whole project is being delayed by Housing Coordinator Charles F. Palmer. . . . In 1937 and 1938, the Export-Import Bank loaned a total of $3,700,000 to Italy. The money now has all been repaid. . . . Spain is still paying on a much larger E-I Bank credit of $12,500,000 extended in 1939. They have not defaulted—yet. . . . When the House of Representatives held memorial services for Congressman Michael Edelstein, who fell dead in the House after replying to Congressman John Rankin of Mississippi, Rankin absented himself.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—We were talking with Jean Dalrymple, who is Grace Moore's personal manager, and she said, "Well, it looks like I may be off to South America again. We've got a 16-concert tour to do, and six weeks to do it in."

"You gonna fly?" we asked her. She said, "Sure, how can you cover South America in six weeks unless you fly? We go down the east coast, cross the Andes, and up the west coast, stopping at all principal cities."

* * *

I THOUGHT back a few years and saw headlines in the morning newspapers about a clipper plane diving into the bay of Trinidad, of three people losing their lives, and of Jean Dalrymple—this same Jean—climbing out of that ill-starred clipper to the accompanying roar of waters rushing through the broken windows.

"That didn't make me leery of flying," she grinned. "I've flown more than 200,000 miles since then. I've been around South America four times . . . this will be my fifth trip. No, the spill into the bay didn't bother me . . . But my dreams did, later on.

"I used to dream that I was trapped in a plane that had pitched into the sea, and the waters would be pouring down upon me, and then I would wake up. I had that same dream for months. I always woke up just before the waters hit me."

* * *

I SAID, "Jean, while you were in that plane, what happened to you? What were your reactions? What did you think?"

"I thought I was going to die," she said simply. "I thought we should all of us surely die. It was in the early morning and we were taking off. I was Jose Iturbi's manager, and we had to get to Buenos Aires. . . . So we were on the clipper, and we must have hit something, or the pilot must have swerved to keep from hitting another boat, for just as we began to rise we fell back, and the windows broke, and I can still see the waters pouring in. The crew got out the crew hatch. We got out the back hatch. . . . It was opened by the steward. . . . We only had about 30 seconds to make it. . . . I thought I was going to die."

"Did your life pass in review before you, as they say it does?"

"No; the only thing I thought was, 'Well, this is it. We're trapped, and how long will it take?' But we got out, and that night we took another clipper to Buenos Aires. It was later, much later, that the dreams began to bother me. I never even thought about not flying. I'm not superstitious. I wouldn't miss flying—it's the only way to travel."

She thinks it's going to be exciting to see South America again, to go down one coast, and cross the Andes, and come up the other coast.

That is, unless those dreams come back.

* * *

ALL the piers that stretch their arms into the Hudson and East rivers from Manhattan's banks aren't for foreign shipping . . . About 40 per cent are used and controlled by the railroads. Manhattan used to have more than 200 piers in hourly use, before the war. Now a great many of them are idle. The daily tidal rise and fall is four feet.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"I'm just hanging around in case some girl backs out."

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

This You Can Do.

For if you cannot change the place
Of living, you can change
The routine of your days, new joys
New pastimes can arrange.

The living of no man should be
A set piece subject to
No difference. Each day there should
Be something gay and new.

And if you must remain in one
Place, change your thought and play,
Seek new companions, ever new
Adventures for each day.

Let's Look Around

Rapid City and the Black Hills

—By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

RAPID CITY, South Dakota—Again getting into superlatives, this Black Hill area, of which Rapid City is the focal point, makes claim to being "the richest one hundred square miles in the world," in the value and variety of its mineral deposits—with gold in top place in wealth production.

Rapid City, so named from its proximity to Rapid Creek and Rapid Canyon, once based its chief claim to recognition on the importance of cattle-raising in this section, but volume of cattle raising around here isn't what it once was, and this community is now placing emphasis on tourist business, and some manufacturing, rather than on the agricultural and mining pursuits which marked its beginning.

As the eastern gateway to the Black Hills and the western terminus of the Bad Lands, Rapid City, with its 13,844 population, is advantageously located to profit by the heavy flow of tourist trade moving between east and west along a northerly route.

The Black Hills, extending about 100 miles from north to south and 60 miles from east to west, have impressed many people as encompassing the most varied and picturesque scenery to be found anywhere in the country, and eastern tourists are inclined to make this section a part of their trip to Yellowstone or the west coast.

It was this region that was found attractive by Theodore Roosevelt, and it was also in these surroundings that Calvin Coolidge, as president, made his historic announcement, "I do not choose to run."

* * *

SOMETHING that is peculiar to the southwest and west, and now spreading to milder climates east of the Mississippi river, is the extent of overnight accommodations offered by motor courts, or motels—as they are sometimes called. These differ materially from the type of "tourist cabins" which lack modern conveniences; as the better class of these courts present an attractive appearance, are conducted in a business-like way and, in the main, provide all the conveniences of a hotel, at a dependably lower price and usually away from disturbing noises.

Inclination of some hotels to announce moderate rate and then quote a considerably higher rate on the "only rooms available," has apparently had the effect of turning much trade to motor courts—and some hotels, which cater to tourist business, have adopted the policy of uniform rates—notably the large Commodore hotel in Los Angeles.

Rapid City makes claim to having the largest number of tourist courts, cottages and cabins of any city in the world—more than 850, with constant additions to the list, and also a full quota of modern hotels—which gives an idea of the extent of tourist traffic here.

* * *

A VISIT to Rapid City would be incomplete without the 20-mile side trip south to see the great national monument that is being carved out of the sheer side of Mt. Rushmore—"the most colossal piece of sculpture ever attempted."

It was here, as you know, that the late Gutzon Borglum started to carve out the features of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt—to be known as "The Shrine of Democracy."

Since the death of Gutzon Borglum last March, work at Mt. Rushmore has been under direction of his son, Lincoln, who had worked with his father on the project since young manhood.

All four of the faces, which measure sixty feet from top of head to chin, are now near completion, with only the busts yet to be carved.

It is estimated that these faces, sculptured in granite, will remain practically unchanged for 100,000 years—and that the huge cost will be justified by the historic and patriotic value of the project.

Maybe so.

A Farmer's Diary

A Mess of Peas

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

LAST Sunday I picked a mess of peas. There were six rows across the garden between two rows of plum trees. The sun was hot and soon the sweat ran heavily down my face. Religiously I went through each row, endeavoring to contact every pod that showed signs of swelling flanks. They were widely scattered, and by the time I came westward on the last stretch, I had gathered no more than a peck of pods.

While I was working, I had time for serious reflection. The seed, at the hardware store, had cost me 50 cents; fertilizer 75 cents and my labor, planting, cultivating and harvesting had required a half day. Curiously it is a common rule of a farmer, that he dare not count his labor when he figures expense of a crop or he will be constantly in debt. If he should count time and a half for overtime, all his income would not cancel his labor obligation.

* * *

I picked 15 pounds of peas which I could have bought from my neighbor for "six bits" or from the grocer for $1 even if the store was about to close. Surely on this transaction I lost all my labor, all use of the land, and yet was 50 cents in actual debt. Financially I was a flop, and when I took my treasure into the kitchen, by wife questioned in surprise and disappointment, "Did you pick the whole patch?" I answered meekly that I did, and wondered if I had better shell them.

She thought I had, so I sat down by the pond, on the ledge of rock where the spring runs out, and while I shelled those peas I thought some more.

* * *

When I planted those rows it was early spring. The ground was moist and fragrant. The bluebird and robin sang from every bush. The south wind bore the breath of woodland flowers. Spice bushes and forsythia were flaming yellow. I walked on the freshly plowed earth and smoothed it with my hands. I had felt that the seeds I planted enjoyed the moist earth I heaped upon them.

When they peeped above the surface, they were the first green shoots. How fine it was to have so perfect an excuse to ease from the door at housecleaning time, reach for a hoe and stir the tempting dirt. Here I could be alone, could work and think and live, nor envy those who passed along in motor cars and perhaps cast pitying glances in my direction.

The peas were fine. And as I ate and ate, enjoying the flavor of each mouthful, the gist of all my thinking resolved itself to this: The best peas are the ones from a man's own garden.

MOHICAN ONE OF 6 CCC CAMPS TO CLOSE MONDAY

147 Men to Leave Station at Loudonville as U. S. Opens Economy Program.

Six of Ohio's 28 CCC camps, including Camp Mohican at Mohican State park near Loudonville, will be closed next Monday as the federal government acts to curtail non-defense expenditures.

Camp Mohican, one of the state's oldest camps, has been in service seven years. It has an enrollment of 147 men. Other camps at Defiance, Bowling Green, Findlay, Wilmington and Chillicothe will be closed.

It has been estimated that closing the six camps will save the federal government more than a half-million dollars a year. The cost of each enrollee to the federal government is approximately $1,000 a year.

Personnel of the Chillicothe and Wilmington camps will be moved to larger camps where the enrollees may be cared for more economically, Col. W. J. McCaughey, the army's CCC officer for the Fifth corps area, said.

The officer was unable to say whether or not still other camps would be ordered discontinued at the end of the next period, Sept. 30, but intimated that a further cut would not be unexpected.

In all, the June 30 disbandment order affects 21 of the 110 camps in the four-state fifth corps area, comprising Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Kentucky. This will leave only 89 camps in operation, compared with the more than 200 which flourished during the late 30's.

Colonel McCaughey declared that all of the young men mustered out would readily find jobs in private industry.

"This cut will not work a hardship on any of the youths at the disbanded camps," he said. "The training they have received will in many instances fit them for well-paying jobs in private industry, which at its present record rate of expansion will welcome this additional man-power."

His statement was borne out by John W. Davis, state supervisor of CCC selection. Davis revealed that his next requisition was for as many youths as are available, but estimated that he would be able to furnish only a thousand at the most, due to the demands of industry.

"A year or two back our enrollments totaled about 5,000 per period," he said. "But since there are now so many jobs in industrial concerns, there is less desire on the part of young men to join CCC outfits."

Registration for the July and October periods of 1940 and the January period of this year approximated 4,000, but the first of the current cuts in April reduced this total to 2,850. Now only 1,000 youths can be found.

Nazis Cross Sweden

Neutral Sweden, trying desperately to remain free of the war, has given permission for one division of German troops to cross her territory from Norway to the front in Finland. Arrows on this Central Press map indicate two possible routes the Germans might use in transforting troops.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

A most unusual summer vacation and a most unusual little girl are the subjects of new children's books released this week at Mansfield Public library. Either one might make interesting vacation reading for older boys and girls.

ISLAND HOLIDAY, by Alice Wright—Very few of us ever learn of deep sea life at first hand, but the two girls in this story had a chance to do just that as they vacationed in Bermuda. They did some trawling in water even too deep for deep-sea diving.

MARJORY FLEMING, THE YOUNGEST GENIUS, by Robert Van Gelder—Marjory was a real little girl a long time ago. She may not have been exactly like her description in this book but at least she was a lively little girl who wrote such an interesting journal that great people praised her and she became famous. This story was meant to be not only about the people she knew but the kind of a story she herself would have liked to read, and maybe it will be so for you too.

MAYOR TAKES RIDE

PITTSFIELD, Mass. —(INS)— Mayor and Mrs. James Fallon enjoyed a short-lived return to the "horse and buggy" days when they went for a sleigh ride with former Mayor Kelton B. Miller.

The ex-mayor engaged a pair of thoroughbreds and a three-seater sleigh for the occasion when he learned the mayor had expressed a a desire for just one more old fashioned sleigh ride.

RESTORES GLASSES

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (ONS) — Several months ago Albert Dunstone, Wyandotte rancher, lost his glasses. But, because of a dream, he now has them back. Joe Buresh was working with Dunstone when the glasses were lost. After four months, Buresh dreamed he had overlooked a wagon with oranges and while inspecting it, saw the spectacles hanging on a limb. The next day he went to the tree, found the glasses and returned them.

The cymbal is the oldest known musical instrument made of br

THEATERS

Technicolor Spectacle.

Magnificently filmed in Technicolor, "Blood and Sand," based on the novel of Vicente Blasco Ibanez, opens Saturday at the Ohio with Tyrone Power, Linda Darnell and Rita Hayworth in the leading roles. The story of the Spanish matador who succumbs to the wiles of a heartless siren was filmed in Mexico City where the cast of 300 was moved for this production. Mexico turned over the city to the company and contributed 30,000 spectators to the filming of the bull fight. The supporting cast includes Nazimova, John Carradine and Lynn Bari.

* * *

Air Thriller.

"Devil Dogs of the Air," opening Saturday at the Madison, pictures those robust rivals, Pat O'Brien and James Cagney, as two marines in the Aviation corps determined to outsmart each other in both flying and romance. Like its predecessor, "Here Comes the Navy," in which the duo was starred, the forthcoming attraction was produced by special arrangement with the U. S. government. "The Wagons Roll at Night," Humphrey Bogart's new starring picture is the companion piece. Sylvia Sidney and Eddie Albert are featured as Bogart's companions in a one-night stand carnival troupe that peoples the production.

* * *

Detective Thriller.

The screen's ace detective, Charlie Chan, exercises his oriental sagacity again in his latest thriller, "Dead Men Tell," opening today at the Ritz. Supernaturalism blocks his efforts for a time but the famed sleuth, played by Sidney Toler, triumphs in the end. Sheila Ryan and Katherine Aldridge are in the cast. Tex Ritter does some hard riding on his horse "Flash," as he rids a western tract of its band of killers in "The Golden Trail," showing as the second attraction.

* * *

Comedy Romance.

Product of too much money and not enough hard knocks the hero of "Redhead," playing at the Park, achieves the art of making his own living via the lunch wagon route. Johnny Downs and June Lang play the leads in this romantic comedy and are aided by Eric Blore and Anna Chandler. Blore, the screen's most soughtafter player of butler roles, is cast as the boy's family retainer who keeps an eye on the couple and sees that they make good. "Trail of the Silver Spurs," the second film has Ray Corrigan, John King and Max Terhune.

The first Roman who wore a crown was Tarquin the Elder, in 616 B. C.

As Van Derau Received Westinghouse Award

G. H. Bucher, president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, is shown here as he presented the Westinghouse Order of Merit and Silver "W" to C. L. Van Derau, Works Manager of the company's Mansfield plant, at a ceremony yesterday. Left to right: B. W. Clark, vice president in charge of the merchandising division; Bucher, Van Derau, and A. W. Robertson, Westinghouse board chairman.

'FOLLIES UNIQUE,' STAGE SHOW TO BE PRESENTED AT OHIO

Heralded as "one of the gayest girl shows on tour," the French stage attraction, "Follies Unique," will open a two-day engagement at the Ohio theater Wednesday.

The show comes to Mansfield after two solid weeks at the Roxy in New York where the international beauties in the revue won Billy Rose's approval and the Radio Ramblers were praised by Jack Benny.

"Never before," Rose is reported as saying, "has man's eyes feasted upon so many glamorous beauties at one time."

Featured in the array of girls is Miss Susan Page, famous hosiery model whose legs are reportedly insured for $25,000. Miss Page has Walter Winchell's stamp for "being the most beautiful girl ever seen on Broadway."

"Follies Unique," is said to be "the only show in the world featuring a chorus of authentic international beauty prize winners."

Enrollment In Summer Reading Club Hits 155

Enrollment in the Robin Hood club, summer reading course for third to ninth grade students sponsored by Mansfield Public Library, reached 155 today according to Miss Myra Lorrimer, children's librarian.

Nineteen of these students will be eligible for a Newberry Medal book given to members who have completed a three-year course and met with the requirements by submitting written reports of all books read.

The bull's-eye target that denotes the progress made by each member is now surrounded with brilliantly colored arrows indicating the interest in the course this season.

FUNERAL SUNDAY

GALION—Funeral services for Mrs. Arthur Goldsmith, who died Thursday will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the home, two and a half miles west of Iberia. Burial will be in Iberia cemetery.

GETS TRAINING

HANFORD, Cal.—(U.P.)—Jack Eller's good grade in his Hanford high school course in the study of first aid came from his practical use of first aid on himself.

Unable to write out a voluminous notebook after his writing hand was disabled, Jack made phonograph records — eight of them—developing phases of the study of first aid.

CAR LOADINGS HERE REFLECT BUSINESS BOOM

23,367 Total For Year So Far In Mansfield Yards; Show Steady Climb.

Freight cars rumbling in and out of Mansfield mean business, and Mansfield will have more business this year than it has had in a long time.

This was made clear today by a comparison of figures issued by the Chamber of Commerce which covered the past five years.

Total carloadings and unloadings in 1936 for the three major railroads running in and out of Mansfield amounted to 28,757 cars. The figure in 1939 totaled 38,370.

This year's total, up to and including the month of May, numbers 23,367 against 1940's 42,245. Or, with only five months under the wire, more than half the total number of last year's cars have moved in and out of Mansfield so far this year.

This year's big month came in March when a total of 5,324 freight cars moved in and out of Mansfield. Since the April drop which followed the March rush to obtain materials preceding priorities rulings, May came back with a total traffic of 5,051.

John C. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce estimated that each car used by Mansfield industry meant conservatively $125 in terms of revenue for the railroads

This would mean that railroad traffic costs in Mansfield would be approximately $731,376 for May this year.

The total figure for 1940, which would be less than this year's figure, was approximately $5,270,625.

ARBITRATION

NEW YORK—(INS)—For the first time in the industry's history 15 of the nation's largest air transport companies operated a full year in 1940 under an arbitration agreement calling for prompt settlement of disputes without recourse to the public courts, according to C. V. Whitney, Pan American Airways' board chairman and ranking officer of the American Arbitration association.

MONEY SCARCE

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—There's a scarcity of money at the Philadelphia Mint. Edwin H. Dressel, superintendent, said: "We're working so hard the walls are bulging out. When some of the new taxes went into effect, there was a widespread demand for pennies. So we cased up on making other coins. Pretty soon be were short on quarters, dimes and nickles. Now we're breaking records every day and still can't meet demands."

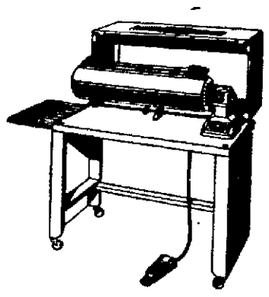
When MANSFIELD'S New Low Electric Rates GO INTO EFFECT

YOU CAN COOK ELECTRICALLY with an ELECTRIC ROASTERETTE without increasing* your electric service bill!

If you already have an electric roasterette here are two other appliances, either one of which you will be able to use without increasing your electric service bill: *

Enjoy the many advantages of an Electric Ironer



OR—

Protect your family's eyesight with another I.E.S. sight-saving lamp.

● Imagine having the joy of using an electric roasterette without having it cost you anything extra to use it. You can roast meats, bake pies and biscuits, cook vegetables . . . prepare complete meals for the average family . . . with one of these handy, easy-to-use electric roasterettes. But the important point of this message is that after the new low electric rates go into effect you will soon be able to enjoy the delicious flavor of electrically-prepared food and yet not pay any more for electric service than you are now paying. The drastic reductions in electric service rates will make it possible for you to live more conveniently . . . do things the easy electrical way . . . yet not increase your electric service bill in doing so.

You owe it to yourself to take advantage of this opportunity. By putting more electrical servants to work in your home you will save yourself time and work . . . will be able to spend more time in enjoying life to the fullest. Begin now to plan on which additional electrical servants you are going to put to work in your home. We invite you to come in and let us show you the many additional appliances you will be able to use when the new low rates become effective, without it costing you any more for electric service than you are now paying.

* Many Mansfield electric service customers pay from $1.85 to $2.60 a month for service. The number of additional kilowatt hours you will be able to use, without increasing your electric service bill above its present amount will depend, of course, on your present usage.

MOTHER OFFICIATES AT SON'S WEDDING HERE

Rev. Iva L. Wallick Reads Service for Miss Madeline Kuenzli and Gerald Wallick Thursday Evening at Pretty Ceremony.

A PRETTY WEDDING was solemnized Thursday evening at 7:45 p. m. at the Four Square Gospel Tabernacle by Rev. Iva L. Wallick, who read the service for her son, Gerald Wallick, and Miss Madeline Kuenzli, daughter of Terrence Kuenzli, Upper Sandusky.

The bride, escorted by her father, approached the altar which was decorated with palms, ferns, a large beauty basket of pink gladiolus, pink and white carnation and blue delphinium and two seven branch candelabra. The traditional wedding marches were played by Mrs. Elsie Ireland. Miss Kuenzli was attired in a formal white gown of brocaded organza made princess style with a fitted bodice and flared skirt falling into a long train.

She carried a bouquet of white gladiolus. Her finger tip veil was attached to a coronet of flowers. Attending the bride was Miss Ruth Silcott who wore a blue brocaded organza gown styled similar to that of the bride. She carried a bouquet of mixed flowers and wore a coronet of flower blossoms with long ribbon streamers.

Karl Eberhardt was Mr. Wallick's best man. Ushers were Nobel Gardner and Ernest McPeck. Preceding the ceremony La Donna Hink sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly" accompanied by Mrs. Ireland. Mrs. Ireland also played "Liebestraum" before the ceremony. Rev. Wallick was attired in a white formal gown made with full sleeves. Her corsage was of red roses. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. J. F. Disher, Upper Sandusky, appeared at the wedding in a blue and white print dress with white accessories and corsage of red roses.

Following the reception, which was held for 30 guests at the home of the bridegroom's mother, South Adams street, the couple left for a short wedding trip through the eastern states. The bride is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and has been employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Wallick is a graduate of Beloit, Wis., high school and is employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Upon their return they will reside at 168 South Adams street.

JOLLY EIGHT CLUB.

Mrs. Nick Blocher, Longview avenue, was hostess to members of the Jolly Eight club at her home Thursday evening. Pinochle was the diversion with prizes being awarded to Mrs E. H. Thomas, Mrs. Joseph Shubinski and Mrs. Willard Wittimire. Mrs. George Blocher was a guest in attendance. At the close of the games a luncheon was served with garden flowers decorating the table. The next meeting will be held July 24 at the home of Mrs. Martin Hoffman, Woodville road.

* * *

ATLAS CLUB MEETS.

Mrs. Jack Crouse, Columbia avenue, entertained eight members of the Atlas club Thursday evening at her home. The evening was spent socially and in sewing. During a brief business session it was planned to donate to a local charity. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served buffet style. The next meeting will be held July 10 at the home of Mrs. Edgar Florian, 103 South Diamond street.

* * *

PLAN PICNIC.

When members of the Pin-Pal club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Richard Parkison, Alta, plans were made to hold a picnic on July 20 at Roadside park, near Bellville. The brief business session was in charge of Mrs. Clifton Balliett. The afternoon was spent in games and contests with prizes being won by Mrs. Homer Drake and Mrs. Everett Hale. Ten were present and enjoyed a lovely luncheon at the close of the meeting.

Mansfielders Named as Heads At State Meet

Thomas Ridenour, 95, of Crestline, retiring commander, was one of the six veterans who marched in the parade for the Grand Army of the Republic which was held in Columbus this week. Registration at the Diamond Jubilee convention totaled 11, but only six of the old gentlemen took part in the parade. Most of the delegates at the 75th encampment were members of the G. A. R., affiliates, service and veterans organizations.

Mrs. Beatrice Coover of Galion was elected Ohio department president of the Woman's Relief Corps, and Mrs. Iva Christman, Bucyrus, was named treasurer of that organization. Mrs. Emma Hancock of Mansfield was appointed chaplain of the Sons' auxiliary and Mrs. Jane Neff of Mansfield, chairman of the executive board of the W. R. C. Mrs. Sarah Case of this city was named alternate for the state department from the W. R. C.

* * *

SIGMA KAPPA GAMMA.

Members of the Sigma Kappa Gamma sorority motored to a roadside park on Wooster road, Thursday night for a wiener roast. Misses Marguerite Boyer and Charlotte Brightbill were in charge of arrangements. A short business session was held at which time the recent dance was discussed. Announcement was made that a gift had been sent to Miss Vivian Walter, a member of the group who recently moved to Canton. The date and place of the next meeting will be announced later.

* * *

VETS ENTERTAIN.

Ladies of the 37th division of A. E. F. Veterans were entertained by the Veterans Thursday evening with a dinner at the Fairway. Dinner was served the 45 guests in attendance at a T-shaped table decorated with pastel colored garden flowers. After the dinner the evening was spent dancing and playing cards. The next regular meeting will be held July 24 at the Memorial building. Plans were made to hold the picnic regularly scheduled for July on August 28.

* * *

JEANNINE CLUB.

Five hundred was in play at two tables Thursday evening when Miss Dorothy Jones, Bowman street, entertained members of the Jeannine club. Score prizes were won by Miss Sue Boals and Miss Violet Stempert. At a late hour a luncheon was served at one long table decorated with red, white and blue appointments. At each place were dainty patriotic favors. The final meeting for the summer will be held July 2 at the home of Miss Boals, Pavonia.

* * *

MEET AT GUEST HOUSE.

The Colonial Guest House was the scene of the meeting of the S. S. S. club when members were entertained Thursday evening by Mrs. Donald Lance Snyder. Mrs. Robert Moore was a guest present. The evening was spent in playing bridge at two tables with score gifts awarded to Mrs. Boyd Terry, Mrs Robert Moore, Mrs Howard Gusinger and Miss Ann Monrath. At the close of the diversions a luncheon was served at one long table decorated with red and white appointments. Some time in August the club will meet to entertain their husbands and friends.

LUNCHEON APPETIZER

For a summer luncheon appetizer: Loosen segments of grapefruit (cut in halves); sprinkle lightly with sugar and chill several hours. Remove centers with scissors and fill them with avocado balls that have been soaked an hour in tart French dressing. Garnish with cress.

Rosemary Imhoff Tells of Coming Marriage Aug. 23

Announcement was made Thursday evening of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Rosemary Imhoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Imhoff, 55½ North Diamond street, to Burton Zimmerman, Homerville, at a party given by the bride-elect at the home of her parents. The early evening was spent roller skating at the Coliseum. Following the social time the guests returned to the Imhoff home for a light luncheon.

The table was centered with a gift which was presented to Miss Marjorie Otter for her skating ability during the evening. The date and names of the couple were enclosed in the gift. The couple will be married August 23 and will return next fall to Ashland college for their senior year. The party was given for friends of Miss Imhoff from Ashland and Mansfield.

Colony Club Takes Factory Tour

Colony club members welcomed 10 new members to the club when they held their regular meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frederick Thaler, Highland avenue. Mrs. Lyle Jones, was associate hostess. A dessert-luncheon was served at noon at small tables decorated with pink and blue appointments.

New members are Mrs. Fred Bucher, formerly from Akron; Mrs. G. G. Jones, Chicago; Mrs. Dorothy Walker, Erie, Pa.; Mrs. Clifford Early, Marion; Mrs. W. F. Wherry, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Mrs. Leonard Black, New York City; Mrs. Spencer Ball, Urbana, Mrs. Edward Grantham, Detroit; Mrs. W. E. Johnson, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mrs. S. E. * * *

LAST MEETING.

Needlecraft club members held their last meeting of the year Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. J. Hartnett, 232 South Mulberry street. One guest, Mrs. John Hester, Akron, was in attendance. Mrs. Bert Velzy, president, conducted the business session. Plans were made to hold a picnic July 24 at North Lake park. Contests were played and prizes won by Mrs. Howard Boyce and Mrs. Roy Crider. Luncheon was served at the close of the meeting.

* * *

AUXILIARY MEETS.

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Association of Master Barbers held a picnic Thursday evening at Seltzer park, Shelby. During the business session three new members were welcomed to the organization. They were Mrs. Doyle Loizer, Mrs. Curtis Zimmerman and Mrs. Louise Houseton. Contests were played during the evening. The next meeting will be a party July 22 at Prospect park.

* * *

REGULAR MEET.

Willing Workers society of the Little Washington church held their regular all-day quilting meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. Irvin Steele, route 39. A covered-dish dinner was served at noon. Sixteen members and two guests, Mrs. Fred Utz and Mrs. Edith Baer, were present. The next meeting will be held Thursday at the church.

Birthday Party Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Maiyer, East Mansfield, entertained Thursday afternoon in honor of the sixth birthday of their daughter, Delores. Pictured above are the children who attended the party. In the first row, left to right, are Marlene Scott, Delores Maiyer, guest of honor, and Albert McCormick. Second row, left to right, Mary Lou Anderson and Virginia McCormick. Back row, left to right, Betty Sue Nunn, Isabel McCormick, Carrol Bailey and Phyllis Ann Schmidt.

Mansfied Shriners Hold Military Ball Thursday

Lovely formal gowns in the pastel shades were worn by the ladies who graced the floor of the Ashland Country club Thursday evening for the Mansfield Shrine club Military ball. More than 50 couple were in attendance for the cocktail hour, formal dinner, program and dance. Bridge in a new manner, called Military bridge, was another diversion for those not caring to dance.

Potentate Harry Reynolds of Cleveland was a guest of honor and spoke briefly. Shrine nobles from surrounding cities were also in attendance for the event. In keeping with the theme of the affair were the attractive patriotic decorations of lovely flags. Favors were small silk flags for the men and handkerchiefs for the ladies. Corsages were also presented to the ladies.

Atty. George Gongwer of Ashland gave the word of welcome and greetings were extended by George Koch of Shelby, president of the Mansfield Shrine club. Mr. and Mrs. Koch led the grand march. Music for dancing was furnished by Nels Blocker and his orchestra.

Members of committees in charge of arrangements were Dr. O. H. Schettler, chairman, golf; Dr. J. H. Stevens, chairman, bridge; H. R. Spettel and C. J. Laser, Shelby welcoming committee; L. N. Benedict, Willard welcoming committee; George Gongwer, Ashland welcoming committee; Gaylord Bahl, jr., and R. L. Walker, Mansfield welcoming committee; F. S. Kelly, chairman, seating arrangements, and D. G. Ogden and B. B. Kuhn, decoration committee.

Other members are D. L. Burns, chairman, ticket committee; J. C. Hartline, chairman, publicity; W. L. Olds, chairman, music; E. E. Bates, E. C. Leisy, and P. E. Schnutzler, refreshment committee; G. P. Koch and C. C. Hartzell, entertainment; C. L. Willsey, chairman, prizes, and Dr. D. R. Talbot, general chairman.

Golf was a diversion of the afternoon.

* * *

BANQUET CLUB.

Banquet club members met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Arthur Edwards, Buena Vista Heights. One guest, Mrs. Ralph Jordan, was in attendance. Bunco was the diversion of the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Louis Lee, Mrs. Frank McGinty, Mrs. Edward McMahon and Mrs. Jordan. Plans were made to hold a family picnic July 10 at Ashland. Luncheon was served at small tables decorated with garden flowers. Mrs. Robert Campbell, Garfield place, will entertain the members at her home July 24.

* * *

POCAHONTAS LODGE.

The regular meeting of the Pocahontas lodge was held last evening in the Eagle hall with nineteen in attendance. Mrs. Grace Norris presided during the routine business session after which the evening was spent socially. The club prize was won by Mrs. Mary Weaver. Plans were made for installation of officers and a birthday party at the hall on July 10.

* * *

RACQUET CLUB.

Members of the Racquet club held a wiener roast at a roadside park north of Ashland Thursday evening. Twelve were present. The next meeting will be held on July 16 at the home of Kaliopi Tatakis, 153 South Diamond street.

Mrs. Edward Dunn Honored By Five At Rimmer Home

Continuing the series of lovely parties for Mrs. Edward Dunn, the former Marjorie Ruhlen, was the kitchen shower given recently at the home of Miss Maxine Rimmer, Lexington avenue. Associate hostesses were Miss Marjorie Swanger, Ruby Bollman, Rose Huck and Ruth Schuck.

Bridge was the main diversion of the evening, with prizes being awarded to Ann Divelbiss and Mrs. Myron Hilligoss, who presented them to the honoree.

From the center of the chandelier hung a large cluster of balloons, in which tiny slips of paper were inclosed revealing the location of the gifts. After all the balloons were broken and the gifts opened the hostess presented the honoree with a lovely kitchen ensemble.

At a late hour, a buffet luncheon was served at an attractively arranged table that was centered with a unique indoor garden. In the center of the garden was a pool that reflected in its water the lighted candles.

L'Amici Club Members Have Party

L'Amici club members met Thursday evening for their last regular session of the year at the home of Mrs. Joseph Calarosa, West Sixth street. During the business session, which was conducted by the president, Mrs. Mary La Susa, plans were made to hold a family picnic July 13 at Buckeye Lake.

During the evening hearts was in play at two tables. Prizes were won by Mrs. Henry Chicolani and Mrs. Harold White. One guest, Miss Mary Villella, was in attendance. At the close of the meeting luncheon was served at small tables decorated with red and white appointments.

* * *

PLAN PICNIC.

Division Two of the United Presbyterian church held its regular meeting Thursday evening at the home of the Misses Katharine and Flosse Courtney, 242 Marion avenue. Devotions were led by Mrs. H. E. McClure. Mrs. J. W. Waddell, vice president, conducted the business session. At the close of the social evening a luncheon was served. The next meeting will be a picnic some time in July.

POSTPONE PICNIC.

The picnic of the Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania Railroad scheduled for Saturday evening has been postponed indefinitely.

MRS. S. F. COFFIN GIVES TEA FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Miss Emily Jean Powers and Mrs. Pliny Powers of Youngstown Entertained at Women's Club Thursday to Meet Mansfield Friends.

MRS. SCOTT FARNUM COFFIN, 43 Hoffman avenue, entertained for Miss Emily Jean Powers, bride-elect of her son, Scott F. Coffin, jr., and Miss Powers' mother, Mrs. Pliny Powers of Youngstown, Thursday afternoon with a tea at the Women's Club. Mrs. Coffin invited 80 Mansfield friends for an informal reception to meet the young woman who will wed her son on Saturday evening. The ceremony will take place at 7:30 o'clock in the Fairchild chapel, Oberlin college.

Assisting Mrs. Coffin were Mrs. C. G. Hillier, Mrs. F. L. Tracy, Mrs. W. M. Layton, Mrs. Charles Jelliff and Miss Dorothy Dann. Pink and white was the color scheme used for the serving of refreshments from 3 to 5 o'clock. Lovely arrangements of garden flowers in the pastel colors decorated the rooms.

Bride's Attendant Entertains With Party Thursday

Miss Martha Jane Doolittle, bride-elect of Lawrence Franks of of Lucas, whose marriage will be an event of Sunday noon, was feted at a lovely party Thursday evening. Miss Helen Friday, who will serve as her attendant, was the hostess at her home, Park avenue west road. The affair was a shower of miscellaneous gifts and the hostess presented her with an electrical gift.

The evening was spent in making a bride's book and later contests were enjoyed. Prizes were won by Miss Mary Baker, Miss Lois Laubscher, Miss Dorothy Rogers and Miss Margaret Gages, who gave them to the honoree. Then refreshments were served at the close of the evening. Appointments were in red and white.

Time to Dry Clean Home Furnishings

This is the time of the year when your slip covers need the attention of an expert drycleaner. Washing them yourself or getting the laundress to do it is usually unsatisfactory for a good many reasons.

An important point to remember is to have your slipcovers cleaned before the soil is ground down into the fibers and stains have a chance to become set. Then the good drycleaner can do a beautiful job with his solvent and special cleaning aids. Unfortunately, many of the popular fabrics for slipcovers have not been properly preshrunk and have not been dyed with fast colors; thus shrinkage and bleeding of color are apt to result if a wet process is necessary. There is far less possibility of shrinkage and bleeding of color when the drycleaning process can be used.

Then too the fancy piping and moss trimming that add to the appearance of your covers can look pretty sad after they've left the hands of the laundress. Moss trimming for instance has to be combed and fluffed to its original newness. When washed it masses and tangles and looks as unhappy as you will when you get a glimpse of it.

Quality establishments do an excellent job of cleaning blankets. When necessary they're measured for size before and after cleaning so there is no possibility of uneveness in shape, shrinking or stretching, and your blankets are soft and fluffy for they are carded. Don't trust good wool blankets to any but the very best drycleaner.

Down comfortables are expensive to buy, and for this reason alone they should be drycleaned carefully. In all instances these are hand finished and with the greatest of care. Food or grease spots are "feathered" out by a competent spotter, and special attention is paid to the edges of the comfortable, for these are likely to be more badly soiled than any other part. Any rips in the stitching should be brought to the attention of your cleaner, it isn't necessary, but it's a wise precaution. Loose stitching and rips are repaired to keep the down from bunching or settling in one end.

Always remember that the surest method of killing all forms of moth life is drycleaning. The larvae cannot stand the immersion in the solvent. After blankets and comfortables are returned to you from the drycleaner, be sure the box or bag in which you place them for summer storage is sealed all around the edges and that there are no cracks or little holes whatever for moths to slip into. The wisest thing to do both from a standpoint of peace of mind and safety is to have your cleaner store your blankets, comfortables and winter draperies during the hot months. They'll be safe from fire, theft and the spring moth invasion.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I caught at Philip Veritzen's arm as he moved toward the telephone.

"House physician, yes," I said croakingly. "Throat specialist; no, not yet. Wait and see. I have so much to do"

Olga, who had risen with me, put her fingers tenderly against my lips.

"She is right, my Philip," she said. "You can see she is able to talk a little, proving her injury is not serious. And your house physician surely will be able to determine whether or not a specialist is necessary."

His look at her was a quizzical one, but he promptly capitulated.

"Some day," he threatened with a smile, "I shall overrule you"

"And in the expressive language of this, my adopted country," she said, "I have heard that one before"

Calls For House Physician.

He laughed aloud, I knew in sheer delight at her sally, and then turned quickly back to the telephone

"Mr. Veritzen speaking," he said. "Please have Dr Wright come directly to Mrs. Graham's suite."

"He will be here directly" he said. "Won't you—can't you lie down until then?"

"She is more comfortable sitting up. I am sure. But she mustn't try to talk, even to the physician."

"She won't need to tell him anything," her husband said. "I'll attend to that."

He kept his word when Dr. Wright came into the room.

"We have had a most unpleasant occurrece here, Dr. Wright," he said. "A gangster, seeking something which he erroneously believed Mrs. Graham possessed, gained access to her suite for a few minutes, and choked her severely before aid came. He has been captured and taken away without anyone in the hotel knowing of it.

"Now we wish you to see what can be done for her. She wishes to appear at a party in the hotel a little later if she possibly can do so, and naturally she does not wish to have attention attracted to her hoarseness."

Dr. Wright had come over to me while Mr. Veritzen was speaking, and put his fingers so carefully against my bruised throat that I scarcely felt them

"Can you speak at all?" he asked.

"Yes, but I don't like to," I answered, smiling

"I don't wonder at that," he commented. Then he turned to his bag and produced a device which I knew would illuminate the interior of my throat for him.

"Please open your mouth as wide as you can," he said, and when I had obeyed he gave my throat a thorough examination.

"Not too bad," he said when he had finished. "If you can rest for half an hour before talking I can fix you up so you'll only have a slight horseness, which could be due to anything. And I can soothe the pain of those bruises on the outside of your throat. But I cannot eliminate the marks of fingers. That will take days. To hide those, you will have to have suitable neckwear."

"I will attend to all that," Olga said decisively, and Dr. Wright at once began his medication, spraying the inside of my throat with something which seemed to eliminate the soreness with miraculous rapidity, and anointing the bruises on the outside with soothing oils.

"Lie down now for 10 minutes and try to relax," he ordered. "I will give you the treatments again at the end of that time."

"I will go with you, Madge," Olga said, and we went into the bedroom.

"Don't you think a specialist—" we heard Philip start to ask

"He is tenacious, my Philip," Olga said with a smile. 'But don't worry. I am very sure that Dr Wright is a sensible man who will veto that proposition: also that Philip will heed the advice I gave him."

Children's Day Tests Have Value

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

In the Protestant churches of the United States there is the practice of having "Children's Day," in June, a kind of graduating ceremony for the Sunday school. Already many such programs are being prepared for this year.

The purpose and general effect is good. The program dramatizes for the adults of the church the work of the Sunday school. It brings out many parents who seldom come to church at other times. The children like it, as a rule, and are made to feel that their Sunday school is a worthy part of the church program.

Parents Sometimes Rude.

It is to be regretted that some parents reveal bad manners at the Children's Day program. Even some of the pillars of the church will be rude without knowing it. They will laugh at a little child who happens to forget his lines or when they think a tot is cunning. They act toward the program more as if it were a vaudeville performance than as a serious dramatization of moral and religious ideals.

I wish the pastor of the church would seize upon the occasion to lead his congregation to learn proper manners toward children, reminding these adults how rude it is to laugh during the program.

Until parents do acquire better manners toward children, it would seem desirable to limit practically all public programs put on by children of the church or public school, to group performances, especially with the young children. The public school already is doing so in many places. Yet there may be great values to be gained from individual performances in public when the performer is well prepared and when he has a courteous audience.

Child Wins a Victory.

In a certain elementary school I witnessed a program on one of our national holidays Several sixth grade children appeared individually. One child, however, forgot her lines and as she did, the children of the audience laughed. She was so overwhelmed emotionally that she gave up and left the platform. The next number was a chorus.

Following this number, the chairman, a sixth grade girl, calmly rose and, on her own initiative, said, "At this place we are going to ask Elizabeth to come back and finish her selection." The children applauded vigorously. And Elizabeth came. She conquered, too, and what a roar of applause went up It was one of the most thrilling triumphs I have ever witnessed I felt like getting up and shouting.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. At what age should a child have explained to him the "facts of life?"

A. As soon as he asks questions related to this matter, answer him A selected list of books on this subject may be had by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a three cent stamp on a self-addressed envelope.

Q. "Should the nervous child ever be punished for naughty deeds?"

A. As a rule, he should, together with ample outlets for acceptable and satisfying activities. He may be in more need of discipline than the poised child. No better way to help the child to grow jittery than to let him do as he pleases.

Q. My daughter is two and refuses to feed herself. Letting her go without meals doesn't seem to help. I have tried everything I know. What may be done? A self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed.

A. Your child will feed herself when you stop feeding her, talking to her about eating, or showing any emotions over her eating. You have never tried letting her feed herself or go without food long enough. Babies, like horses, won't starve with food before them. It may take several days, even a few weeks, to get good results.

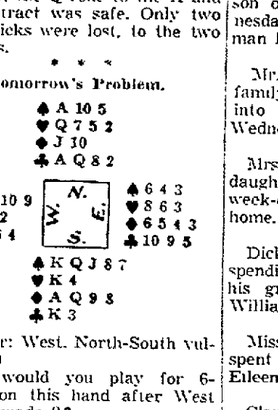
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

CLEAR-CUT PLAN PAYS

Just moving along slap-dash, or hodge-podge, you can throw away all kinds of contracts which are there to be made. It pays in the long run to take a bit of time to plan the play of your hand. Particularly notice the cards of moderate height. Many players neglect this, and pay heed to practically only two factors—the really high cards and the suit lengths. Those intermediate fellows, like nines and tens, can be very important.



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass
4 ♠

Bidding like that occurred at two tables of the tournament where this hand was dealt and kibitzed, the club 2 being led by South in each instance. One declarer won that with dummy's Q and immediately led the diamond K to the A. The returned club to the K was followed by the diamond Q and a diamond ruff by the spade 2. Next the spade 4 was led and, when South played low, West finessed the 10, which lost to the J. Now can you figure out any way to keep from losing two more tricks, to the heart A and the spade K? Neither could the declarer, so he was down one.

At the other table, after winning the first club trick, the declarer noted his possession of the 10, 9 and 8 of spades, valuable if the J was singleton in either of the defenders' hands. So she led the spade Q to the second trick, intending to send it through if not covered and come up with the A if the K was played by North. When North had to play the singleton J, the Q rode to the K and the contract was safe. Only two more tricks were lost, to the two red aces.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

How would you play for 6-Spades on this hand after West led the spade 9?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, June 28.

Despite some tenacious obstacles or other thwarting or depressing side issues, judging by rather auspicious planetary conditions this should eventuate in a constructive and profitable day. Such success and advantage may probably be due to unusual cleverness, keen grasp of the hampering situations, or by some measure of strategy, subtle instinct amounting almost to uncanniness. The creative powers are under excellent vibrations for diverse expression. All should be backed up by common sense and sound judgment. Attend to the physical condition, avoiding nervous strain.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of outstanding success, with much progress and profit. This attained by sound judgment and good constructive ability, supported, or incited, by peculiar gifts or insight, intuitive or occult. Strategy, intrigues and uncanny cleverness should play a prominent part, vanquishing stubborn obstacles perhaps of a physical or nervous nature.

A child born on this day should be exceptionally clever, not only in practical effort, but by creative genius in art, drama, keen imagination .. unusual inspirations.

ASKS DAMAGES

Mansfielder, Struck By Car, Seeks $2,180 Judgment.

J. C. Marshall, Mansfield, had filed a suit today in common pleas court for $2,180 damages for injuries he allegedly received last April 24 when a car backed into him on West Dickson avenue.

Defendant in the suit is Allan Bishop, Mansfield, who, the plaintiff contends backed his car into the street without warning, knocking Marshall down.

Marshall said in his petition that he received injuries which made it impossible for him to work. He is represented by Atty. H. G. Clark.

CIO Joins Move to End Shipyard Strikes

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

You Can't Print That!

(A compendium of tales that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If you find in them any resemblance to actual persons living or dead — you've probably guessed right!)

* * *

YEARS before you ever heard her now-famous name, Anne was a lovely, vivacious young girl who acted as "come on" for a group of gambling sharks who plied the trans-Atlantic liner trade. She would smile at the "suckers" on deck, dine with them, and then steer them into a card game, where they would be fleeced in the very best traditions of the cheating gambler's code.

Dorothy Kilgallen

But one day Anne picked a bad fish—a private detective employed by the steamship company—and almost wound up in jail. She was released only when she promised to quit the racket and stay off ocean-going vessels.

She went to Hollywood, made a success in the movies, and married Sean, one of the cinema's handsomest heroes. No one ever guessed her shady, sea-going past.

However, not long ago a member of her old gang—call him Dave—turned up in Hollywood, broke, because trans-Atlantic travel is now confined to refugees and scurrying diplomats. It was only natural for him to look up Anne.

The night he called on her, he was introduced to Sean as an old friend of the family. And by a strange coincidence, that night at Sean and Anne's mansion a poker game was in session. Dave sat in—and do you have to be told that he cleaned up?

The next night the Hollywood boys wanted to get even—and Dave obliged them. He kept cleaning up time after time, until now he's an integral part of the Hollywood poker set—and he's making better money than he ever made on the boats.

And what about Anne? How does she feel as she watches Dave fleece all her friends? Is she upset?

Not at all. Anne is taking a 20 per cent cut on Dave's winnings, just like in the old days—and using it for extra spending money!

But you can't print that. It doesn't fit in with the domestic picture of Anne that movie magazines are putting in type for next month's newsstands!

* * *

Jack is a pianist who was once married to Myra—the greatest blues singer of her day. Throughout the years of her glittering career he acted as her accompanist and advisor. But after a series of stormy temperament clashes that enlivened the front pages and gave the Broadway brigade plenty to talk about, Jack and Myra separated, and then divorced.

Jack still adored his wife, and jealousy burned in him whenever he read that she'd found another love. Myra missed Jack, too—but not in the way you might suppose. What she missed was having him at the keyboard, having him whip the orchestra into shape to accompany her, and having him advise her in her selection of songs.

She couldn't find another accompanist who suited her—and that's why she retired.

Spurred on by a combination of ambition and revenge, Jack decided to devote his life to discovering new song stars who would put the memory of Myrna in the shade. Luck rolled with him, and his first discovery—Lily—took Broadway by storm.

She's still one of the top names on Broadway. But she and Jack have parted professionally, and Jack still searches for potential star material.

For more than a decade now, he's been "finding" girls—but none of them ever reached more than a casual Swing Street importance, although in each case Jack had the girl bound to an ironclad contract, and in every instance he stuck with his protegee until it was certain she'd never get another singing engagement.

Some time ago, Jack found Grace, a pretty brunette with a lovely voice, and she did nicely under his coaching—until he "discovered" a new girl, Ruth. For the first time in his years of managing, Jack dropped a protegee like a hot penny—and the protegee was Grace. He just tossed back her contract so he could devote all his time to Ruth.

Well, Ruth created a brief flurry, but you don't hear about her anymore. And what happened to Grace? Well, Grace is ascending to the top of the Broadway ladder with dizzying speed.

Jack reads her notices and weeps. Because he's stuck with another so-so canary, while the lark he left behind has turned into a bright new Broadway star.

But you can't print that. If you did, Jack's ex-wife, Myra, would laugh and laugh and laugh. She's been waiting for years to hear a good joke on the lad she couldn't do without

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Richard Bennett, sire of the three beauteous Bennetts of the movies, on his last visit to daughter Joan observed her at her home-work and pronounced: "What a little fussbudget you are!"

Fussbudgeting — or system, as Joan prefers to call it—is Joan's specialty, just as business is sister Connie's and raising a family was sister Barbara's.

"I found out a long time ago," said Joan today, "that when you have a lot to do it's easier to have a system."

ROBBIN COONS

She was in her dressing room, purring with unsystematic relief as her hairdresser, Carmen Derigo, systematically massaged her neck and shoulders. Joan looked like a pretty peasant with scarf confining her hair, her costume (for "Wild Geese Calling") a homespun suit that may have been in vogue in the frontier's Gay Nineties. She was suffering, said Joan, from a captious sacroiliac, dislodged during a "relaxing" massage some evenings before. Her back now was tightly — and of course systematically—taped.

* * *

The youngest Bennett has three jobs: wife, mother, movie star. She's the wife of Walter Wanger, the producer. Wanger is the kind of producer who is also an industry leader—meaning Mrs. Wanger entertains important visitors.

She's the mother of Diana, 14, and Melinda Markey, 7.

And as a movie star she has the usual routine jobs, besides acting, which include wardrobe fittings, portrait sittings, interviews, script reading, and the general pursuit of the glam.

Any of these is a full-time job. And she's on a budget — supervised by a business manager who is going to be surprised (said Joan) when he discovers that, after this picture, she has (1) gone to New York, (2) bought four need dresses, (3) bought a new car.

* * *

She won't say how big a budget, except that it's a "stinking amount." "My sister (Connie) got into trouble over all that '$30,000 a week' publicity," she explained, "so I never talk money."

COURT DECISION ALTERS INDIANA RULE BY BOARDS

Judges Nullify Commission Form of Government Set Up By B. O. P.

INDIANAPOLIS—(AP)—The Indiana board and commission government, substituted by Hoosier Republicans for the centralized setup that Paul V. McNutt built, was gone itself today, swept into history by a state Supreme Court decision.

With four Democratic judges concurring and the lone Republican dissenting, the court nullified as contrary to the state constitution last night three laws enacted by the 1941 G.O.P. legislature to force Democratic Governor Henry F. Schricker to share appointive power with four Republican state officials.

"The creation of offices is a legislative function; the appointment of officers is an executive function," the opinion read.

". . . The acts herein questioned seek to absorb and usurp functions which are normally and generally understood to be the functions of a governor and vest them in minor administrative officers."

The decision was given on the Republicans' appeal from an injunction issued March 31 to prevent the acts from taking effect.

The ruling was the upshot of a fight over control of 12,000 state jobs

McNutt, now federal security administrator, put through as governor in 1933 the reorganization act which vested in the chief executive power to appoint most employes of all state departments.

The new Republican assembly repealed the act and put the departments under boards of three officials with the governor in the minority.

The laws involved in the Supreme court case would have (1) instituted this system for four departments; (2) Forced the governor to share with the lieutenant governor the appointment of the state education board, and (3) Replaced his attorney general with a G.O.P.-chosen one.

YOUTH HELD IN HIT-SKIP CASE

Police Say Young Man Knew Auto Struck Two Women.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—Police today held a 19-year-old young man as the hit-run driver of an automobile which ran down and killed Mrs. Kathlin Kiraly, 64, a widow, and injured Mrs. Margaret Tapleshay, 63. The two victims were hit as they alighted from a street car.

Police said the young man admitted his car struck the women but he didn't know why he failed to stop at the scene of the accident.

TRAFFIC EXPERT CALLED SUICIDE

Body of Clevelander Found With Bullet Through Heart.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Sergeant William M. Powers, traffic analyst for the Cleveland police department, was dead today, a bullet wound through his heart, a day after he asked his superior officer to sign his resignation from the police force.

Detectives said Powers, 36, apparently was a suicide.

Powers' immediate superior, Deputy Traffic Commissioner Walter L. Wolcott, said Powers had complained that a group within the department was picking on him and trying to "get" him.

FLAG LOWERED FOR HOUSTON

Oldest Member of Congress Dies In Hospital After Operation.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The flag atop the capitol was placed at half-mast today for the oldest member of congress—Sen. Andrew Jackson Houston (D Tex.) who died at nearby Baltimore, Md., during the night.

The 87-year-old legislator, who was appointed April 21 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sen. Morris Sheppard, died at Johns Hopkins hospital from shock following a stomach operation performed earlier in the day.

A son of Gen. Sam Houston, first president of the Republic of Texas, the senator was born at Independence, Tex., June 21, 1854, and entered the hospital last Friday, the day before his 87th birthday.

Houston took office June 2 and served only three weeks when he was stricken. A special election to complete the term, which ends Jan. 3, 1943 will be held in Texas tomorrow. Houston would have served until one of the 27 candidates had been declared elected.

The aged Texan graduated from West Point, but instead of going into the army he took up law and was admitted to the bar in 1876. Three years later he was appointed clerk of the U. S. district court at Dallas and served 10 years. In 1902 Houston was appointed by the late President Theodore Roosevelt as U. S. marshal, serving until 1910. He was prohibition candidate for governor of Texas in 1910 and 1912.

PASTOR AT ASHLAND PROTESTS CHURCH STAND AGAINST ARMY

ASHLAND—Opposing the stand of Methodist church delegates who voted at the Northeast Ohio conference in Cleveland to disband the nation's "super army at the earliest possible moment," Rev. Adam Hunter, pastor of the Methodist church in Ashland, said today that the report did not express the opinions of members of the church.

Following a spirited debate, delegates at the conference voted 148 to 145 to "continue its protest against the militarization of our national life and to insist upon the repeal of our conscription legislation and the disbanding of our super army at the earliest possible moment."

Voicing his protest, Rev. Hunter asserted that church members who also are members of the American Legion particularly opposed the delegates' stand.

"You do not understand the temper of the inarticulate in our churches," he said.

The delegates voted by a sizeable majority in favor of a negotiated peace to end the present war and to ask President Roosevelt and congress to keep promises that no American soldier will fight on foreign soil.

Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade, was to speak today at the conference on a program devoted to the problems of the laymen.

MEET MONDAY

Grain Elevator Operators To Hear AAA Discussion.

Handling of the new wheat crop under the government's marketing quota plan will be outlined to grain elevator operators from eight northcentral Ohio counties by AAA officials at a meeting at 7:30 p. m Monday in the American Legion hall in Mansfield, Guy Taylor, county AAA chairman, said today.

Representatives of the federal AAA farm program in Ohio are expected to be here from Columbus to assist county AAA officials in presenting the new marketing restrictions to the grain dealers.

Counties which will be represented at the session will include Richland, Ashland, Morrow, Knox, Holmes, Crawford, Huron, and Wyandot.

The marketing quotas, voted several weeks ago by farmers throughout the nation, will limit the amount of new wheat farmers may sell this year. A penalty of 49 cents a bushel will be imposed on grain sold above the allotments set by the AAA officials.

DIES ON WAY TO VISIT IN CITY

Mrs. Lucile Bristor Belcher, Former Mansfielder, Dies in Hotel.

Mrs. Lucile Bristor Belcher, 65, former Mansfield resident, died unexpectedly last night in a Cleveland hotel where she stopped enroute from her home in Los Angeles, Calif., to visit relatives in Mansfield.

She was a sister of Fred Bristor, president of the Citizens Savings and Loan company in Mansfield. She had lived in California for 45 years. Funeral arrangements were incomplete today.

HERE'S NEW ONE

Heat Lists Airplane As Latest Victim In Chicago.

CHICAGO—(INS)—Chicago's prolonged heat wave listed a new victim today—an airplane

Carl Bach, a commercial pilot, told authorities that when he was forced down on a city playground in his Piper Cub cruising plane, the heat was to blame. It was so hot, he said, that fuel boiled in the gas lines and clogged the motor.

Laff-a-Day

"Is it formal or can we wear our own clothes?"

Hot weather has not slowed up production of volunteer Red Cross workers but it has made the workrooms at the Red Cross Production Center pretty uncomfortable. Several electric fans and water coolers would ease the situation considerably, according to Mrs. Moneta Calhoun of the Red Cross office, who said that workers are now canvassing their friends for donations alone that line.

It's usually members of the "stronger" sex who are blamed for forgetfulness when it comes to anniversaries but yesterday the tables were turned. "Jock" Collins, Westbrook Country club pro, phoned his wife to ask her to get dressed to go out for dinner. "Why," said his wife, "What's the occasion?" And then she remembered it was their 27th wedding anniversary.

Mansfield firemen emptied their pigeon coop yesterday. Last week, the husband of one of the racing pigeons from Buffalo escaped while the coop was being cleaned. Yesterday the firemen took the other two pigeons to Alta hill The Cleveland pigeon, who ousted the husband in his mate's affections, flew straight up in the air, circled about and headed for his home city. The other pigeon, however, was unable to fly and was taken home by Fireman Lee Harley until it will be able to take to the wing again.

The Richland county courthouse had an unscheduled "black-out" this morning which also left offices without their electric fans. The electric current was turned off in various sections of the building during the morning while repairs were made on switch boxes. Despite the bright sunlight outside, the hallways and a number of offices were left in semi-darkness which caused workers in some offices to call a "work stoppage" until the lights returned.

DIES AT AGE 70

Isaac Hinkel Succumbs After Lingering Illness.

Isaac Hinkel, 70, died early this morning at his home, 72 Sycamore street, following a lingering illness.

Born May 8, 1871, in Richmond, Va., he came to Mansfield 50 years ago.

Surviving are his wife, Margaret, several nephews and nieces.

Private funeral services will be held at the home Saturday at 3:30 p. m., in charge of Rev. Albert L. Linder of the Park Avenue Baptist church Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

TWO DROWN IN SEMINARY LAKE

Girls Succumb In Effort To Save Companion Near Canton.

CANTON—(INS)—Two 18-year-old girls were dead today in a drowning accident after they tried to save a companion who waded out too far in Brunnerdale Seminary Lake, near here.

The victims were Margaret Rieglmayer, of Cleveland, and Agnes Hart, of Fort Recovery.

Miss Reigelmayer and Miss Hart went to the aid of Agnes Bourgei, 18, and stepped off into deep water. Their cries brought students and workmen from the seminary grounds, but only Miss Bourgei was saved.

HANGS HIMSELF

London Prison Farm Inmate Found Dead in Washroom.

LONDON—(AP)—Stanley Cassidy, 42, of Stark county, serving a life sentence for murder, hanged himself in a washroom at the London prison farm, officials reported today.

Coroner W. E. Lukens said he would return a suicide verdict. Cassidy was found hanging from a window frame, a belt looped about his neck.

WORKERS VOTE TO RETURN TO JOBS MONDAY

Follow Action By AFL Group as New York Transport Tie-Up Approaches.

(By Associated Press)

The machinists' strike which for 47 days delayed work on half a billion dollars worth of defense orders at eleven San Francisco bay shipyards was all but settled today.

Six hundred CIO machinists voted last night to go back to work Monday, provided a separate agreement is signed before then. Earlier yesterday, 1,200 AFL machinists voted to return to their jobs under terms of a master contract covering all major west coast shipyards.

The master contract provides wages of $1.12 an hour and time and one-half for overtime. Contrasted with the $1.15 and double overtime demanded by the strikers. The old wage rate was $1 an hour, plus double pay for overtime.

A mass meeting of CIO transport workers last night apparently moved New York City closer to the reality of a subway strike which would badly cripple the transportation lines of the nation's largest metropolis.

Union officials declared 8,000 employes of the municipally operated subway system voted last night to strike July 1 unless a satisfactory agreement was reached on their demands for a $1-a-day wage raise and adjustments in working hours. Three other union mass meetings have been scheduled to reach the remainder of the 32,000 employes.

Work stoppage in the composing rooms of three Chicago afternoon papers—the Daily News, Daily Times and the Herald-American—ended late yesterday in accordance with instructions from the International Typographical union, which had not authorized the walk out. The compositors, seeking a new contract, ask a $5 a week increase in the present basic rate of $58 for day workers and $62 for night workers.

The Connecticut labor department called on federal conciliation officials for help in an attempt to settle a wage dispute at the American Brass company, Waterbury. The concern, with 10,000 employes, holds large army and navy contracts. The CIO mine, mill and smelter workers union has been empowered to call a strike if necessary to enforce its demands for a wage increase of 10 cents an hour. The company has offered a 4-cent boost. The current scale has not been made public.

About 4,000 CIO gypsum workers were reported by union officials to be on strike at 13 plants of the United States Gypsum company, including Genoa and Gypsum, Ohio. The strikers demand an increase of 10 cents an hour in wage scales now ranging from 62½ cents to 95 cents.

A hearing was set before the mediation board Monday on the month-long strike of 2,800 AFL truck drivers in the Pittsburgh area.

Sergeant Thinks Ex-$48,000 Man's Well Off In Army

NEW YORK —(INS)— Private William McChesney Martin, who gave up a $48,000 a year job as president of the New York Stock Exchange when drafted into the army, agreed today that army sergeants are tough.

Martin, on leave, told friends he had some difficulty executing certain maneuvers shortly after his induction.

And the sergeant didn't pull his punches in remarking about Martin's intelligence:

"I've seen some stupid people," he quoted the sergeant as saying, "but you're the worst. It's a lucky thing you got in the army, because you would never be able to make a living anywhere else."

The Secret of the Marshbanks + + +

By Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER XXVI

"What's the excitement?" Fran called through her half-opened door. Cherry went slowly in.

"Amy was married today in Reno."

"She wasn't!" Fran exclaimed.

"Yes, she was. The morning papers will have it, if the evening ones don't. There's no hiding a title like that."

"Pitiful little fool!" Fran said in a whisper. "Of course he's a complete rotter. Jud would have killed him. Old lady know?" she asked, with a jerk of her head in the direction of Mrs. Marshbanks' room.

"Amy just told her."

"Wild?"

"I imagine so. I believe she said that there was a curse on the family."

"I believe there is!" Fran said gloomily, staring into space. "They'll never find out who murdered Jud. But," she added, "you can be pretty sure that the police are keeping an eye on that precious Gogo."

"Gogo had a motive," Cherry said. "Not only was the judge violently opposed to Amy's marrying him, but what he was discussing that very night with her and with his mother and with me was—you knew something about that, Fran?"

"I couldn't be in this house without knowing something about it. It was some claim that your aunt made—something she said about Fred Marshbanks' will? Of course, that was all long before I came into the family, but Jud did tell me—did tell me about his brother Fred, and that—you don't mind my mentioning it?"

"That Fred Marshbanks was my father? Oh, no. I seem to have known that for a long, long time. But there was more to it than that. There was a will, drawn up by Judge Thomas Comstock. Nobody knew what was in that. But Mrs. Marshbanks burned it. She wouldn't risk Amy's being hurt or any of her money taken away."

"So," Fran said musingly, "Amy and Gogo had their motives for getting rid of Jud, and certainly old Mrs. Marshbanks had. If you believe what some old dodo of an English judge once said, I had. He said that between married couples there might always be motive. I don't see that you had."

There was a pause, then Fran said suddenly, "Kelly might have had a motive."

"Kelly!" Cherry echoed, her voice suddenly failing.

"Well, if you're searching for motives. And that wasn't quite what I meant anyway." Fran said. "What I meant was that Kelly didn't have an alibi. He'd brought this Englishman, Lefanu, into town for a dinner, and he'd been here, in this house, and after that he said he'd just driven idly about, waiting for the dinner to be over. Then he put Lefanu on the midnight plane, and went back to Sausalito."

"But, Fran—you certainly don't think—you certainly can't think that Kelly . . ."

"No, I don't." Fran interrupted promptly. "The police didn't hold him; just took his statement and let it go at that. You can tell by the way he acts that Kelly doesn't know anything about it. And at the same time—that's what's bothering me," she added, in a different tone, suddenly frowning and narrowing her eyes.

"What's bothering you?" Cherry asked apprehensively.

"Oh, it's making me sick! I don't know whether to tell you or not."

"Tell me what?" Cherry managed to ask, with a sinking heart.

"You might as well know. After you went out this morning the man named Mullins asked me to step into the library. He had a flat little packet of letters in his hand; he asked me if I recognized them. I said yes, certainly. They were the letters Kelly Coates wrote me last year. About a dozen of them. Love letters."

Cherry felt faint.

"How'd they get them?"

"I haven't the slightest idea," Fran said. "I hid them two weeks ago, the day after Jud was killed. I slipped them into the lining of my dressing case. It had come loose, and that morning I complained to Molly about it, and while she was right here in the room I pasted it with glue."

"What sort of letters are they?" Cherry asked, with the world gone suddenly black.

"Love letters. Letters that will look bad if they're given to the newspapers, I can tell you that. What he and I could do if we were free, frantic sort of letters. He said—Mullins said—that they were very incriminating."

"How did he ever get them?" Cherry questioned, in a sick voice.

"Goodness knows! Molly, perhaps."

"Molly wouldn't. She's the loyalest person alive."

"She was loyal to Jud. That doesn't necessarily mean that she'd be loyal to me."

"Does it mean they'll send for Kelly?"

"I don't know. But someone in this house got those letters for them, Cherry. Somebody knew. They'd stopped ransacking my room. Someone told them, or actually came in and got them."

"Old Mrs. Marshbanks?" Cherry breathed.

"I thought of her. In her heart she hates me. She'd be glad to think Kelly did it, that things had gone so far between us he simply couldn't stand it!"

"But they couldn't suspect Kelly!"

"These letters won't help Kelly," Fran said dryly. She had finished the slow business of oils, pastes, powders, rouge for her face, eyelashes, brows. Now she drew a great cellophane bag over her head and went to take her shower. Cherry sat stunned.

* * *

The ballooning of a negligee distracted her. The door of Fran's big closet was open, and within the closet the window must be open, too, for the row of garments neatly aligned upon hangers was in great agitation.

Cherry went in and shut the window, and coming back, picked up the negligee that had fallen and restored it to its hangar. She hated the sight of it; that was what Fran had worn on the night of the tragedy; she had had on this negligee as she ran downstairs ahead of them all.

Cherry stopped short, stood with a suddenly arrested breath with icy fear touching her spine. The negligee was slightly rumpled in one of its folds. It had been squeezed together, loosened again. It had wiped something oily and dark, something metallic, something thick and liquid that was stained with black.

A trifling discoloration, the size of a woman's finger possibly not noticeable at all, unless one happened to look straight at it as Cherry was looking now. A crumpled tiny circle, as if the cloth had been forced into a small tube, a tube as small as a pistol barrel, a finger-sized smudge that might have been made by the oil from that barrel, by the blackness of gunpowder.

* * *

When Cherry went downstairs old Mrs. Marshbanks had had breakfast and was sitting by the fire reading the papers that announced the marriage of Amy Marshbanks to Count Constantino the day before. Greg was reading the sports news.

"Well, so we have a countess in the family," Mrs. Marshbanks said grimly.

"She had said she would," Cherry said. "And I suppose that under the circumstances she wouldn't have wanted a big wedding."

"He wouldn't have wanted a big wedding," the old woman said darkly; "the less publicity the better for him!"

"He may really be in love with Amy," Cherry offered, feeling that now the mischief was done there was no particular object in maligning him.

"It'll cost Amy just about a hundred grand," said Greg, from behind the paper.

"Amy's the sort," Cherry said, "who has to find out things for herself. But she isn't a fool, and I wouldn't be surprised to see her take the whip hand and get a lot of excitement out of her marriage."

"Fran says he's asked her for money already," Greg said scornfully.

"No, he didn't ask her, really; she made him take it. She told me so. She had a balance at the bank, and she split it with him."

"Otherwise they'd have gone to Reno by bus," Greg submitted. Cherry laughed, although she had felt a little while earlier that she never would laugh again.

"The most generous little heart in the world," mourned Amy's grandmother. Cherry knew that she would like to think that it was true; perhaps she really did believe it.

Unbelievable as it might appear, Cherry and old Mrs. Marshbanks were amicably conversing. To be sure, the air was charged with shock and grief and change; to be sure, nobody in the house was quite his or her normal self. But yet there was a certain thawing on the part of her perverse old grandmother this morning that warmed Cherry's heart; in their common distress and strain they could somewhat comfort each other.

Only yesterday Cherry had learned of the existence of those love letters from Kelly to Fran. Cherry was heartsick. He had told her that he loved her, but only a few months ago he had loved Fran, too; how could matters ever be straightened out now, so that her trust in him could be restored?

* * *

Yesterday's second shock had been the discovery that the gown Fran had been wearing upon the fatal night of the murder had been stained with unmistakable marks of gunpowder and gun oil. Fran must have been living in terror of its discovery.

Lying awake in the night, Cherry had seen that fatal little stain in her mind's eyes, had remembered detail by detail the horrors of that dark night when the judge's shout had rung through the house, and when they had all awakened, just too late. For the pistol had been smoking on the floor and the echo of his voice had hardly died away when they had found him.

Had Fran had on that negligee then? Cherry asked herself. Yes, she thought she had. Certainly she had not had it on a short while afterward, when the police arrived. But to Cherry's inexperienced eyes she had never seemed to betray the slightest consciousness of guilt, and the police presumably had found her explanation of the night's events acceptable.

This morning Fran came downstairs while Cherry was finishing her breakfast. Like the rest of the household Fran was showing the strain. She sat down and looked at her grapefruit, pushed it restlessly away. "Those letters worry me," she said.

"What letters?" asked Mrs. Marshbanks, eyeing the younger woman over her glasses.

"Some letters Kelly Coates wrote me—silly, perfectly harmless letters, but wait until you see what the papers make of them!" Fran answered, impatiently.

"This is the first I've heard of this," said the old woman, in a voice of desperate resignation.

"I only knew of it myself yesterday. I'd put them in a place that seemed absolutely safe. They ferreted them out."

Cherry had finished. She went to take the chair opposite the older Mrs. Marshbanks at the fire.

"Hello, everyone!" Kelly Coates stood in the doorway.

Cherry's heart gave a great spring, began to tremble with fear and pain. Oh, she did not want to see Kelly this morning, not after Fran's story of the letters, not after the wonderful day he and she had had together at Topcote!

Stasaitis Chalks Ninth Straight Win Against Braves

Sport Podge by REX HESS

The Mansfield Braves won't play Lima in that unique doubleheader at Lima and Galion on the Fourth of July after all.

Instead the Braves will play an even "uniquer" doubleheader, meeting Lima at Lima in the afternoon, and coming back to Galion for a night struggle with Grover Hartley's Findlay Oilers.

Galion gets a break in the new arrangement since Findlay at present is a much better ball club than Lima.

* * *

Grover Hartley may be getting a break too, a break that may take his club to Galion for the rest of the season.

Gruff Grover wasn't fooling last week when he told me: "I've got to get more support at Findlay or fold up I was all set last spring to move to Marion, had the support of the Marion business men and everything looked rosy. And then I found six softball clubs in the ball park ahead of me. I'd move in a minute if I found a good spot opening up."

* * *

Says Galion, rather smartly,
We'd welcome Mister Hartley.

* * *

And that's just what Galion is saying. At least that's what a Galion Junior Chamber of Commerce member who has been working on the big July 4th program informed me.

"We'd have no trouble at all beating the crowds the Findlays have drawn at home this season," declared this emissary from the Crawford county town.

"There's just one drawback. Under the terms of the Heise park endowment, no admission fee may be charged for events at the park on Sunday. Grover would have to play away from home on Sunday or make some arrangement with Galion sportsmen for other Sunday support beyond admission fees."

* * *

Would Galion draw? Many persons who claim to be in the know, tell me there's no doubt at all on that score With Bucyrus, Crestline and other towns in the Crawford area boasting long reputations as baseball minded communities, Galion would have plenty of help supporting an Ohio State league team, even though it's far below the size of other cities in the circuit.

And when, and if, the Tiffin Mud Hens should come to town with Lee Stuckman hurling for the Brood, Bucyrus fans alone would fill the park

* * *

Findlay'd call him a rapscallion
If Grover'd move his team to Galion

* * *

IT HAPPENED WHEN DEPT. — When Bill Salem went out of action this week with a bum ankle he left Bobby Ankrum as the only Brave who had played in every inning of Mansfield's Ohio State league games. . . . When Schuyler "Pat" Patterson held Gene Kavanaugh of Lima hitless in Monday night's game here, he halted a clubbing streak of 24 consecutive games. . . . When Lima's Eddie Evan whiffed eleven Braves in 7 1-3 innings at Lima Tuesday night he boosted his strikeout total to 136 in nine games. . . . When the Tiffin Mud Hens walloped Fremont Tuesday night it made the sixth victory for the brood over the Green Sox in eight clashes. . . . When I get through with this paragraph I'll be through for the day. It's a promise.

HILLIS, HUME ENTERS U. S. NAVAL ACADEMY

ALLIANCE—(INS)—Hillis, Hume, former Alliance high school All-Ohio halfback, has been admitted to the U. S. naval academy, it was learned here today.

Hume, a chunky triple-threat, completed his preparatory work at Bullis school, Silver Springs, Md., and was admitted to Annapolis after passing his entrance examinations.

Hume was appointed by Congressman W. R. Thom, of Canton.

Al Milnar Toes Hill Tonight

Tribe Returns Home With Five Wins, Seven Losses.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Back home for the week-end, Cleveland's Indians clung to the edge of first place today on the strength of Bob Feller's 16th win of the season, a wobbly 11 to 8 defeat of the Boston Red Sox

* * *

They finished their second eastern tour with five on the credit side and seven debits, Fireball Feller having taken three of the four games in which he played before more than 100,000 eastern fans.

* * *

Under the stadium lights tonight they face the Chicago White Sox for the first of three games, with Al Milnar and Bill Dietrich staging a pitching duel, to see what happens to the margin of six percentage points which separates Cleveland from the first-place Yankees.

Feller was off his top form yesterday, and in the seven and two-thirds innings he worked he allowed 11 hits.

* * *

The Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals are in an exact tie for the National league lead today, and apparently they are going to keep right on fighting each other until the end of September.

* * *

This is an old custom in the senior circuit, but never any more fiercely contested than this year.

The Dodgers pulled into a tie last night by crushing the Boston Braves, 11-2, while all other teams in the league were idle.

Brooklyn went west a couple of weeks ago trailing by two games. They won 10 out of 14 on their trip, in contrast to the debacle of their first western swing, when they lost six out of eight.

Last night the Dodgers made the Braves their stepping stone to the top, mauling three pitchers for 14 hits, four of them by the slugging Dixie Walker, and scored seven runs in the third inning to sew up the game

* * *

The New York Yankees held on to their slim percentage lead in the American league by humbling the St. Louis Browns 4-1 with a spectacular one-hit pitching performance by Lefty Marius Russo.

* * *

The young southpaw was parted from a no-hit game in the seventh inning when George McQuinn smacked a homer into the right field stands, but he faced only 27 other batters, and let no other Brownie get past first base. Two double plays wiped out men who walked Joe DiMaggio doubled on his last time at bat to run his hitting streak to 38 consecutive games, three short of the record, and Tom Henrich homered to extend the club's record string of four-baggers to 35 in 21 straight games.

* * *

The Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators, who had battled 13 innings Wednesday, struggled through 16 innings yesterday until Washington finally edged out a 3-2 decision on Jimmy Bloodworth's run-producing single. Ed Smith went the whole way for the Sox.

* * *

Bob Johnson hit two home runs, each with two on, and two singles to account personally for six runs and help the Philadelphia Athletics to an 8 to 4 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Bissman Keeps First Place

McCullough Shoots 38 For B-League Medal.

Bissman's retained first place in the News-Journal B golf league at Possum Run last evening with a 4 to 1 victory over the second-place Elks

* * *

Central Fruit moved into third place with a 4 to 1 decision over the Moose, Tucker's Furnitures blanked Timkey Lumber 3 to 0, and City News and News-Journal tied, 2 to 2.

Russ McCullough carded a two-over-par 38 to edge Frank Lay who had a 39 for the league's second best score of the day. Bud Houston was forced to go one extra hole to defeat Pete Schemine.

Champion Defeated In Joust

National College Golf Tourney Nears Close.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Stanford, Louisiana State, Princeton and Baltimore sent representatives into the 36-hole semi-finals of the 44th national intercollegiate golf tourney today, and one of the quartet would be a worthy successor to the 1940 king who abdicated in yesterday's quarter-finals.

* * *

F. Dixon Brooke of Virgina, the blond winner of last year's event, dropped out with a 3 and 1 setback at the hands of Otto Greiner of the University of Baltimore, and now it looks like anybody's race, with the experts leaning just a bit toward Earl Stewart, Louisiana State's remarkable red-head.

* * *

Stewart, only four over par for 99 holes of qualifying and match play after losing five strokes to the "old man" in one contest, meets Greiner in today's scrap.

In the other bracket are Danny Carmichael, Princeton's 1940-41 basketball captain and No. 1 baseball pitcher, who meets Ray Brownell, Pacific coast intercollegiate king and lone survivor of Stanford's mighty four-man team victors.

Carmichael, a Columbus youth, has never played golf for Princeton, but here he is making a bid to win a national crown for his alma mater, from which he was graduated a couple of weeks ago. He's always been a hot-shot golfer around the Buckeye courses.

The other semi-finalists have long records in tournaments. Brownell, Carmichael's foe, began playing at the age of eight, has qualified for four national amateurs, and has won 10 fairly important fixtures.

Stewart paced the qualifiers for the present tourney with 142, two under par, to set a new record for the event, while Greiner has won the Maryland amateur and intercollegiate, and the Middle Atlantic amateur.

Fremont Hurler Allows Only Three Singles

Chatlain Plays For Mansfield In Place of Suspended Manager

MANSFIELD'S crippled Braves swung their crutches in vain against the slants of Big Jim Stasaitis at Fremont last night, and saw their hopes of catching the Ohio State league-leading Green Sox fade on the wings of a 1-6 defeat.

Stasaitis allowed the Braves only three hits in chalking up his ninth straight victory. Graf Moore collected two singles and scored the Braves' only marker in the fifth, and Harry Siegbert connected for the other blow, also a single.

Young Bob Kusava, high school southpaw from Flint, Mich., started his second game for Mansfield, and after a wobbly start which saw the Sox piling up five runs in the first two frames, he hurled the kind of ball expected of him by Cleveland scouts who recommended him to the Braves.

Bob fanned 14 of the Hose, gave up nine hits and issued five passes.

BRAVES AT HOME

Friday—Fostoria.
Sunday—Findlay (2 games).

He left 10 Fremonters stranded on the paths, while only five Braves died on base.

Ed Chatlain, former Mansfield high school athletic star, who graduated this month from Wittenberg where he starred for three years in football, baseball, basketball and track, heeded an emergency call for help sent out by suspended Manager Alex Clowson and filled in the centerfield garden for the Braves

Ed had no more luck than six of his new teammates in solving the Stasaitis slants, and had no fielding chances. He was signed to play throughout Clowson's three-day suspension, and will be in the lineup tonight when the Braves meet the Fostoria Red Birds in a ladies' night game at the Fairground.

Eagan, left fielder of the Green Sox was chased in the second inning when he hit, but lightly, Umpire Art Bulmon with his bat. Lefty Fisher, who hurled the second game and part of the first in the doubleheader here the night before, replaced Eagan in the Fremont lineup.

President George Satterlee of the Braves disclosed today that Pitcher Tony Drewek, now under temporary suspension while he visits his mother in Detroit where she is undergoing an operation, will probably be sent to Huntington in the Mid-Atlantic league upon his return here.

Buzz Wetzel, head of the Cleveland farm system, believes Drewek may develop faster with more experienced catching, Satterlee explained.

Tiffin remained in the flag chase last night by defeating Findlay 12 to 4, and the Hens are still just two and a half games behind Fremont. Lima pushed Fostoria further into the cellar with an 8 to 4 beating.

Chuck Byers probably will be called on to toe the hill against the Birds tonight.

Big Race Track Goes Bankrupt

$2,500,000 Golden Gate Plant Goes on Auction.

OAKLAND, Cal.—(INS)—The ultra-modern $2,500,000 plant of the Golden Gate Turf club at Albany, Cal., dogged by ill-luck since its attempted opening in the big rains of last winter, stood forlornly on the auction block today, with no bidders in sight.

The club was formally declared bankrupt by Federal Referee Thomas H. Ledwich, when Edward P. "Slip" Madigan, general manager, informed him that all efforts to interest new money had failed. A Chicago syndicate which had planned to loan the club $350,000 has withdrawn the offer, Madigan reported.

* * *

As of yesterday, the club's debts stood at $917,000, and its assets at $43,000 in cash, plus the plant itself, of uncertain market value despite its cost of $2,500,000.

* * *

Madigan and Atty. C. H. Graham told the referee they had tried in every way to get money to reopen the track, since filing voluntary bankruptcy Feb. 7 and getting an extension of time. Meanwhile, the club's debts have increased daily, and it would require at least $425,000 to open it now, they said.

Ledwich appointed William E. Dean as trustee and urged that the plant be sold as quickly as possible, so that the new owners —if any—may be able to open it for the fall racing season.

The track held only five days of racing before it folded early this year, after weeks of delay occasioned by heavy rains and mud conditions.

Two Games Played In Junior League

Junior Baseball leaguers played two games at the Fairground yesterday, the Indians squeezing out a 5-4 victory over the Cards and the Giants defeating the Dodgers 6-2.

* * *

The Indians' winning runs came in the second and third innings when they pushed five across the plate. Ross led the Cards' attack with a perfect afternoon getting two for two.

Johns and Pace sparked the Giants' attack getting two for three. Only three Dodgers were able to nick the three-hit pitching of Pace.

Games scheduled Monday in the league are Yankees vs. Braves, 1 p. m. and Giants vs. Cards, 2 p. m.

Boss Casey Stengel Admits Losing Braves Are Unhappy

By JUDSON BAILEY

BROOKLYN —(AP)—Losing ball clubs are seldom happy clubs and the Boston Braves are no exception, says Manager Casey Stengel.

A rumor has been going the rounds that a rebellion is brewing along the Braves, just as trouble has been reported in connection with the Cincinnati Reds and other clubs at one time or another. But there is nothing seriously wrong at Boston, according to the manager and various players.

* * *

"Sure, we have guys who don't feel good," explained Stengel while here for a game with the Dodgers.

* * *

"So does Brooklyn. Do you suppose those two Dodgers who were fined for taking airplane lessons are happy about it. But we don't have any real trouble."

Asked about Max West, the young outfielder who won the all-star game for the National League with a home run last summer but who is hitting .207 at the moment, Stengel retorted:

"If you were a ball player who thought you had a chance to be traded to a pennant winner and get that extra $5,000 from the series, you'd feel a little badly too about being on a seventh-place club."

Then Stengel launched into an explanation of some of his trades, which were reported to have upset his players.

"I don't trade players because their salaries are too big. Any man in his right mind would rather pay big salaries and have players that would keep his club up there.

"I let Babe Dahlgren go to the Chicago Cubs because I have plenty of first basemen on the Cubs and coming up in the farm system. But I need catchers bad. When I sent Dahlgren to Chicago, I got Tulsa (a Cub Farm) to sell me this kid catcher, Al Montgomery.

* * *

"We can't win a pennant this year. So we have to build for the future. Dahlgren just didn't figure for us.

* * *

"When we let Al Lopez and Elbie Fletcher go to Pittsburgh, each time it was the last day of the trading season and we had to get the money. Lopez was with us a long time and I think right now he is one of the three best catchers in our league.

"But how good have Turner, Sullivan, Lanning, Majeski and some of those other fellows been that we let go? And we still had Addie Miller and Chet Ross and a lot of other good boys.

"We have a crippled ball club now and we're not doing as well as expected. But we'll get going."

The Toledo Inverness pro smashed the ring finger of his left hand when he caught it in a car door. Physicians at a hospital where he was taken for treatment removed the nail from the smashed digit.

Howard Edges Yuncker Club

Bow In Extra Inning To All Stars.

Yuncker's Sports lost a 3-2 decision yesterday to the Howard all-stars, at Howard, O.

* * *

It took the Knox countians an extra inning to subdue the Sports in a duel that saw McKee giving only three sparsely scattered hits to the visiting Mansfielders.

* * *

Cervinski gave the Howard club six hits, Hammond was the only batsman on either club to get two as he split the offerings of Cervinski, two out of four.

The Sports tied the score in the first half of the last inning and it wasn't until the Howard club had moved into the extra frame that the winning run went in.

Millers and Blues Battle for First

(By Associated Press)

Those mauling Millers of Minneapolis will tangle with the Kansas City Blues at Kansas City tonight in the opener of a series which may furnish some indication of which way the pennant's pendulum may swing in this season's tight American Association race.

* * *

These clubs are virtually tied for the leadership, with the Blues on top by a single percentage point—.607 to .606 for the Millers.

* * *

Minneapolis took advantage of Kansas City's open league date yesterday by defeating Milwaukee, 11 to 3, taking the rubber game of the three-game series

Kansas City played an exhibition game with Cincinnati of the National league, the major leaguers winning, 3 to 1, as Harry Craft smashed a ninth inning homer with a mate on base.

Louisville fell a little off the pace by losing, 4 to 1, to Toledo's Mud Hens. Indianapolis and Columbus broke even in their doubleheader, Indianapolis taking a seven inning twilight tilt, 7 to 4, and Columbus taking the nightcap, 8 to 7, in 11 innings.

It's Still All Or Nothing For Babe In Sport Contest

By HARRY FERGUSON

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—It's still all or nothing with the Babe.

He has been out of baseball a long time, but Babe Ruth still operates on the theory that you should shoot the works every time. Strike out or hit a homer, that's his idea.

And that's the way he is going to work today when he steps on the first tee at Fresh Meadow Country club to try to square things with his old-time foe of the diamond, Ty Cobb.

* * *

If he wins, it's likely to be a smashing, lop-sided victory. If he loses, he'll lose by the length of one of those homers he used to clout over the walls and into the stands of American League baseball parks.

* * *

You know the story of this athletic contest by now. The matches were arranged for the benefit of the United Service organization which is interested in establishing recreational centers near army camps. The first one was played in Boston on Wednesday over the Commonwealth course and Cobb won, 3 up and 2 to play. If Ruth wins today—and he will be favored—they may play the rubber match in Detroit. Tris Speaker also quite a ball player in his day, may challenge the winner.

The Boston match revealed that both men have carried some of their baseball philosophy over into golf. Cobb is still the smart percentage player. He pokes a short, straight drive down the middle, preferring to be on the fairway rather than belt the ball a mile and be in the rough. He places great emphasis on his short game and is a superior putter.

* * *

Ruth whales away off the tee, shooting for a birdie on every hole. He likes to see 'em roar down the fairway and if they catch the rough he doesn't worry too much about it. He never has got around to developing his short game and there is a suspicion that his interest lags unless he can cut loose and belt the ball.

Both men plan to have competent advice in event they find they are equally matched and a little strategy is needed to turn the tide. Cobb will have Jimmy Demaret, the well-known prosessional, as his second. Going all out, Ruth has asked Craig Wood, national open champon, to be his brain trust.

Co-eds Clash In First Tournament

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Thirty-five co-eds from 20 colleges move into Columbus Sunday for the first annual women's national intercollegiate golf championship—but a glance at the program sets you to wondering whether it's to be a week of links competition or social functions.

* * *

Golf starts Monday at 9 a. m. with the qualifier, but the committee hasn't decided when it will end. The original program called for eight to qualify for match play, with the finals Thursday, but some of the girls want the low 16 in the title flight, with the championship being decided over 36 holes on Independence Day. They expect to get the problem settled over the week-end.

* * *

Apart from the golf, the girls will attend a buffet supper Sunday evening, at which qualifying round pairings will be announced. Monday brings a picnic and a tea. Wednesday evening calls for a mixed swim at the men's natorium on the campus, and the program announces that "escorts will be arranged for any girls who would like to go dancing."

Fritzie Zivic Irked By Davis

Overweight Match May Become Title Affair.

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y. —(INS)— "I'll fight him—title or no title—and knock him out within five rounds," snarled welterweight champion Fritzie Zivic today as he prepared to head for the boxing commission to undergo a psysical examination and some strenuous chin exercise here this afternoon.

Informed that his opponent, Al (Bummy) Davis' managers would ask that next Tuesday night's 12-round, overweight match be staged at 15 rounds and ruled a title fight because Bummy couldn't come in over 147 pounds, Fritzie obliged with the above observation, spiced with several phrases not exactly suitable for family newspaper consumption.

As the script from Davis' summit, N. J., camp has it, Al and his manager, Johnny Attel will appear at the commission today and plead that Davis (roll that drum and let's mat it Pvt. Davis, if you please!) just can't make more than 147 pounds as he contracted. Davis has been at 147 for the last three days and his trainer, Ray Arcel has suspended boxing drills with alarming regularity to see if Bummy can't put on a few ounces.

AGED TURNER GALLOPS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. —(INS)— After running 100 yards in 14 seconds flat, Otto Wetzel, 68, was hailed today as an example of what daily exercise will do for the human body. Wetzel performed the amazing feat at the opening of four days of athletic and gymnastic events by the turnvereins.

PAM—The Colonel Muses! By A. W. Brewerton

CERTAINLY IS STRANGE - VERY, VERY STRANGE - ABOUT THE LOST MONEY PAMELA FOUND WHICH NO ONE CLAIMS! SHE TRULY HAS TRIED HARD TO FIND ITS OWNER, BLESS HER!
6-27
WISH I COULD HELP HER! SHE'S THOROUGHLY CONVINCED IT BELONGS TO SOME POOR PERSON WHO PROBABLY NEEDS IT BADLY - AND, BY HECK, I THINK SHE'S ABSOLUTELY RIGHT
MOST PEOPLE WOULD HAVE GONE AHEAD LONG AGO AND ACCEPTED IT AS A GIFT FROM THE GODS! - BUT, NOT PAMELA! I JUST CAN'T THINK OF ANYTHING SHE HASN'T ALREADY TRIED!
AND LITTLE DID THE OLD COLONEL SUSPECT RIGHT THEN JUST HOW DIRECTLY INVOLVED HE WAS SOON TO BECOME IN THE STRANGE AFFAIR!
I WAS ON MY WAY TO THE BANK WITH THE MONEY WHEN, AS I WALKED DOWN PARK STREET, I---

JUDGE PUFFLE— By Gene Ahern

THESE ARE PHOTOS OF ROBIN'S INTENDED BRIDE!---CAN YOU IMAGINE HIM GIVING THE NOBLE NAME OF PUFFLE TO THIS SHRIEK?
I MET HER IN PERSON, AND THESE PICTURES FLATTER HER! SHE LOOKS EXACTLY LIKE A REFLECTION IN ONE OF THOSE AMUSEMENT PARK CURVED MIRRORS!
WELL, IT'LL BE AN EVEN BREAK!--ROBIN'S PROFILE WOULDN'T BE A STAND-OUT, IF HE PUSHED HIS HEAD UP THRU A PILE OF GOURDS!
POOR GAL,--- MARRYING A LOAFING PUFFLE!---FOR YEARS AFTERWARD SHE'LL WISH SHE GATHERED UP THE WEDDING RICE!
THEY REALLY THINK ROBIN IS FORTUNATE-

SPECULATION IN COTTON SEIZES MART SPOTLIGHT

Price Leaps More Than Dollar a Bale as Other Stocks Are Lackadaisical.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Feverish speculation in cotton overshadowed lackadaisical dealings in today's stock market.

Cotton futures bounded up more than $1 a bale at the opening to a new high mark for the past 11 years.

Among shares given an occasional lift were N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Western Union and Chrysler.

Unchanged to off a trifle were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Kennecott, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, and International Harvester.

Holders of merchandising stocks found comfort in the Dunn & Bradstreet survey disclosing public spending throughout the country this week attained a peak for the year to date.

Building company material shares came in for study in the wake of the president's request to congress to boost the defense housing program by $300,000,000 to construct 75,000 new homes.

U. S. ACTION ON CREDIT BUYING EXPECTED SOON

OPM Studies Proposal to Curb Installment Purchases of Vital War Materials.

(Editor's Note: This is the last of four articles on the effect the national defense program is having on the average man in the street.)

* * *

By JACK VINCENT
(INS Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — Measured in dollars and cents, Americans are going to have to do without about $2,000,000,000 worth of goods and services this year that they might have been able to buy in normal times.

And, in 1942, the need to divert much of the U. S. production capacity of munitions will mean that there will be between $8,000,000,000 and $9,000,000,000 worth of shortages of goods and services for civilians.

Those are the best estimates available at OPM. If the size of the defense program is boosted (a second program is now being drafted) the shortages may become more acute.

This means, in turn, that strict price controls are in the offing. OPM officials also are considering the possibility of asking congress for legislation to curb installment buying.

Officials of the OPM's office of price administration and civilian supply (OPACS) are greatly disturbed by estimates of the credit research unit of the department of commerce pointing toward a 42.7 per cent increase in the financing of new automobiles this year, as compared to 1940. They say this gives evidence of a very noticeable increase in the expansion of the installment business in all lines, as well as motor cars.

For 1940, it was estimated that about $5,000,000,000, or about 12 per cent of all retail sales, were credit-financed. Between 50 and 60 per cent of automobile sales were installment sales; about 50 per cent of all household appliances; about 40 per cent of all furniture sales, 20 per cent for jewelry stores; and about 10 per cent for department stores.

N. H. Engle, adviser on distribution at OPACS, says:

"What have these facts to do with defense or what concern are they of the defense administration? Just this—you will note that the greatest use of installment credit is in exactly those lines in which shortages of consumer goods may be expected to appear earliest. You know also that installment credit has long been recognized as a contributory factor to inflation."

OPM officials, as a result, are studying possible legislative means to curb such credit buying. It is probably the most complex of all problems facing defense officials.

Before the legislation is enacted, however, the public probably will first feel the results of price controls.

Controls, in some form or another, already have been imposed on automobiles, rubber (automobile tires and tubes), furniture, bread, steel and iron and steel products, farm machinery, aluminum scrap, zinc scrap, combed cotton yarns, nickel scrap, and hides (shoes). Officials also are watching commodity markets handling such foodstuffs as coffee, tea, cocoa, sugar and spices.

These price controls, according to the OPM, are necessary because of the increased amount of money in circulation due to booming employment in defense industries. The more money in circulation, the brisker the bidding under the old law of supply and demand, OPM officials say. If Americans have to do without $2,000,000,000 worth of goods and services this year and $8,000,000,000 next year the bidding would be so brisk that there would be runaway prices unless price controls are set up, they conclude.

SEEKS RING

Diver to Look for Gem Lost When Dentist Rescued Boy.

BUCKEYE LAKE —(INS)— A diver will seek to recover a $450 diamond ring which slipped from the finger of Dr. R. J. Woodward as the Columbus dentist was rescuing 14-year-old James Alley, of Columbus, who had sunk to the bottom of a 15-foot-deep channel.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Issued Building Permit — Frank Betz, 347 Lexington avenue, was issued a building permit today to construct a seven-room residence for $7,500 at 568 Yale drive.

Bitten By Dog — Ralph White, 340 Sturges avenue, told police today he was bitten by a dog at the Rusk coal yard on East Second street while playing baseball. Police notified the dog's owner to tie it up for a ten-day period.

Police Seek Stolen Car—Frank R. Koker, 251 Glessner avenue, told police today that his auto had been stolen last night from its parking place in front of a Bowman street restaurant shortly before midnight.

Hold Bake Sale — The Happy Stitchers 4-H club of Springfield township will hold a bake sale all day Saturday in the Third Street market in Mansfield. Proceeds will be used to help finance the club members' trip to the 4-H camp.

Two Arrests—State highway patrolmen today reported the arrest of two motorists who pleaded guilty to traffic violations and were fined by Mayor T. M. Henderson in Savannah. Sara K. McClintok, 30, of Cadiz was fined $5 and costs for failure to stop at a through road and Dana H. Keller, 26, of Detroit, was fined $5 and costs for careless and unsafe driving.

Fine Tag "Switcher" — Alfred Anderson, 188 Cleveland avenue, was fined $50 and costs today in municipal court by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch after pleading guilty to operating a motor vehicle with license plates issued for another. Anderson told the court that he was using one tag on one car and the other on another auto he sold and was delivering. The judge suspended $45 of the fine.

Dog Bites Boy—David Husung, 124 Vennum avenue, told police yesterday that while riding a bicycle on Forest Hill road he was bitten on the left leg by a dog. He was treated and returned to the vicinity by police. The boy identified the dog which had bitten him and police asked its owner, Mrs. Harry B. Soulen, 555 Overlook avenue, to tie the dog for ten days.

WESTINGHOUSE HELPS DEFENSE

Savings on Aluminum Enough To Build 130 Bombers, Says Chairman Robertson.

"They are devoting their efforts to conserve every ounce of metal essential to defense. To our surprise, we have found that many of our substitutes proved better than the originals. While we have been looking for one thing, we often have found an improved material or device that we weren't even trying to find."

One of the examples he cited was the substitution of plastic material for aluminum for the turbulator which agitates the clothes in electric washers. Since 1,800,000 tubulators were used in 1940, that one item is expected to mean a major saving of material.

Robertson said the use of a substitute material in even a small item like a refrigerator shelf slide conserves 12,000 pounds of aluminum.

Robertson was in Mansfield yesterday with G. H. Bucher, president of the Westinghouse company, and B. W. Clark, vice president, to inspect the plant here.

C. L. Van Derau, works manager at the plant, received a silver "W" as an award of merit of "outstanding contributions to the electrical and mechanical arts and to company progress."
